Fallout Reporting Posts To Ring Victoria Area

By IAN STREET

GREATER Victoria is to be ringed by a series of "fallout reporting posts" now under construction.

A total of 30 posts will cover Vancouver Island as far north as Campbell River and Kelsey Bay.

Army engineers are designing and supervising construction of a nation-wide grid of shelters containing instruments for recording fallout levels in time of nuclear attack.

The information gathered from the posts would be used to warn the populace of fluctuating levels of fallout following the attack.

The Canadian Army's Western Command, which takes in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, will have a total of about 2,000 fallout reporting posts when the program is complete.

Here, shelters to house the posts are already nearing completion at RCMP detachments in Sooke, Shawnigan Lake and Chemainus.

LIGHT STATIONS

Others are under construction at department of transport light stations at Race

Point, Sheringham Point, Discovery Island and Active

Pass.

Still others to be put out to tender in the next few days, will be constructed at the naval air station at Patricia

Bay Airport, B.C. Electric generating station at Jordan

River and Cowichan Lake

RCMP detachment.

CAPTAIN COMMANDS

Capt. Glen Desautel, commanding officer of the Victoria detachment, 11th Works Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, is in charge of the program for establishing local posts.

He said RCMP detachments, light stations and public utilities were chosen because they are manned 24 hours a day and would have staff available in an emergency.

RELIABLE LINKS

These locations also are served by reliable communications, RCMP radio, DoT radio, telephone and BCE radio.

Information from the "automatic reading device" in each post will be sent by the "best method available."

Outlaw Mental Hospitals

OTTAWA (CP)—A radical new pattern for treatment of Canada's mentally ill in community-operated hospitals instead of provincial institutions was proposed here Monday at the second Canadian institute on mental health services.

"Present mental hospitals should be legislated out of existence," the convention was told in one of six reports from a committee of the Canadian Mental Health Association after a six-year study.

The six reports—including far-reaching recommendations for the treatment of mental patients—were placed before 130 Canadian leaders in psychiatry, psychology, social work, occupational therapy and psychiatric nursing for detailed study.

Psychiatric treatment has often been thought of as being best managed by custodial care. The modern trend saw psychiatry as a medical specialty which must operate in medical centres similar to general hospitals, the report declared.

Leftist Gizenga May Face Murder Trial

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—The central Congolese parliament yesterday overwhelmingly approved a vote of censure against Vice-Premier Antoine Gizenga, clearing the way for trial of the Communist-leaning Lumumbist on murder or treason charges.

Gizenga was captured and placed under house arrest in Stanleyville by central Congolese soldiers after heavy fighting during the weekend. That apparently put an end to Gizenga's secessionist efforts.

"SUFFICIENT CAUSE" A central government spokesman said "the 15 dead in Stanleyville are sufficient cause" for Gizenga's arrest.

There were reports that a formal arrest warrant was being prepared by the public prosecutor.

GETS FREE HAND Parliament voted the censure against the self-proclaimed heir to the late Patrice Lumumba by the overwhelming count of 67 to 1, with four abstentions.

Observers said the censure gives the government of Premier Cyrille Adoula a free hand to deal with Gizenga as it sees fit.

The UN and Katanga last night exchanged prisoners.

Mine Traps 49 in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Forty-nine miners were reported trapped Monday in an American Smelting Co. mine at the town of Francisco Portillo, according to information reaching here from Chihuahua in northern Mexico.

Compensation Board Probe Likely Soon Says Peterson

Appointment of a royal commission to probe Workmen's Compensation Board procedures will likely be made at the coming session of the B.C. legislature.

The hint was dropped yesterday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson while speaking before the annual convention of the western district. International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, in Vancouver.

"I believe that each time your union has submitted a brief to the government there has been some reference to workmen's compensation," said Mr. Peterson.

"In your last submission you requested the appointment of a royal commission."

"At this time I can only assure you that your submissions in this respect have not been forgotten nor have they fallen on deaf ears," he said.

At the last session of the legislature Mr. Peterson said that a royal commission into Workmen's Compensation Board procedures was being considered.

Chicago School Disaster Traced to 13-Year-Old

CHICAGO (UPI)—A family court judge has received information that a 13-year-old boy has admitted setting the Dec. 1, 1959, fire which killed 95 children and teachers at Our Lady of the Angels school here. It was reported yesterday.

The information was given Sunday to Judge Alfred C. Cella of family court.

It was said the boy was a student at Our Lady of the Angels and was one of a group of students led to safety minutes after discovery of the blaze, which claimed the lives of 92 children and three nuns.

The boy admitted starting the school fire by tossing lighted matches into a waste container near a basement stairwell. It was said. He said he hated school and loved to hear fire sirens.

When he and Margaret return from their vacation in Antigua, they will find a letter from the ministry of works telling them work can be started at any time on their new home. This is a 22-room apartment at No. 1A Kensington Palace.

The catch is that it is going to cost $198,000 to renovate the crumbling building. Queen Elizabeth will pay $50,000 of it from her private income.

The British taxpayer will have to pick up the rest of the tab, and that's where the trouble is going to start. It is inevitable that the question will be asked what the taxpayer is getting for his money.

Tony has done what any head of a family would do in such circumstances. He got a job for maybe as much as $28,000 a year) as artistic director of a new magazine which will become part of the Sunday Times, published by Roy Thomson, Canadian newspaper magnate.

On Sunday, the Observer, rival of the Sunday Times, cried foul. "It will inevitably seem unfair to rival newspapers and magazines that the Queen's close relative is used for the enlargement and enrichment of the Thomson empire."

Kennedy Thant Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy appealed to both The Netherlands and Indonesia yesterday for peaceful settlement of their New Guinea dispute lest an outbreak of war bring harm to all the world.

Concern was also expressed in the United Nations by acting Secretary-General U. Thant over the naval clash off West New Guinea. He also appealed for a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

Trade Up

Jobless Totals Tumble

HAMILTON (CP)—Works Minister David Walker said Canada's year-end trade balance was favorable for the first time since 1952.

Citing figures not yet released, Mr. Walker said that unemployment for December was down between 120,000 and 130,000 from December, 1960.

FIGURES CITED

The unemployment figure in mid-December, 1960, was 328,000.

The last available figure from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics—for mid-November, 1961—was 349,000.

He said the latest gross national product—the sum of all goods and services produced in the country—is higher than ever before.

EARLY ELECTION

He said in an interview these favorable signs should mean an early federal election this year.

"But the prime minister wants to get some legislation through first."

Smallpox Checks Spread

LONDON (UPI)—Health checks against smallpox spread over most of Europe and to the Middle East Monday following the death in Britain of the sixth suspected or confirmed victim among 12 cases of the disease.

In Copenhagen all people who have visited England since before Christmas were being urged to report immediately for vaccination. In Genoa, port authorities imposed sanitary checks on the ship President Garibaldi, which arrived from Pakistan where there now are 287 confirmed cases.

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Trans-Canada Airlines said Monday all passengers to Germany must show proof of smallpox vaccinations because of an outbreak of the disease in Düsseldorf.

Dutch Chase Invaders Capture 50

(AP-Reuters)

HOLLANDIA—The Dutch navy dispersed a flotilla of Indonesian torpedo boats attempting to invade West New Guinea Monday night and sank one of the vessels, an official communique asserted yesterday.

The communique, issued by the Dutch military commander, Rear Admiral L. E. H. Resser, said 50 survivors were picked up from the torpedo boat.

CHASED BACK

A navy spokesman also said Dutch ships chased the remains of the flotilla back to Indonesian territory.

The communique said the torpedo boats were attempting to land troops in Dutch-held West New Guinea but that the move was completely foiled and not one Indonesian soldier got ashore.

The spokesman said Dutch ships ceased pursuit of the Indonesian boats because "the Netherlands still respects Indonesian territory."

In Jakarta, Indonesia confirmed that one of its torpedo boats was sunk in a battle with Dutch ships and planes. But a government spokesman said the Indonesian vessels were attacked outside of the territorial waters of Netherlands New Guinea.

HEAVILY ARMED

The Dutch communique issued here described the torpedo boats as speedy and heavily armed, carrying 60 millimetre guns and four torpedoes.

"The ships, which have been especially developed by the Russians, are very adequate for hit-and-run actions," the communique asserted.

The communique said the 50 survivors constituted twice the

B.C. Forgetting Flood 'Victims'?

VERNON (CP)—Stuart Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Okanagan River-Valley, says the B.C. government is making no plans for resettlement of 1,200 persons who will be flooded out by the High Arrow Dam on the Columbia River.

He said in a weekend interview he is disturbed by the fact nothing has been said in recent talks about resettlement plans.

"It's a matter for a town planning authority," he said, "and should be started now."

He said he would take up the matter in Ottawa. The provincial government must find locations for the displaced. It was up to the provincial government to ask for assistance.

Australia Fears Setback

BRADFORD, England (Reuters)—Britain's entry into the European Common Market could inhibit the development of Australia, Canada and New Zealand and threaten Western economic co-operation, Australia's high commissioner in London, Sir Eric Harrison, said Monday night.

Addressing the Bradford Textile Society, Sir Eric said about 20 per cent of Australia's export income would likely be affected.

Payola For Visas?

TORONTO (UPI)—The immigration department Monday launched an investigation into charges of alleged payola to speed up visas for Greek bridegrooms.

The inquiry followed a story by newspaper columnist Pierre Berton that he had three affidavits from Greek immigrants swearing they had paid money to a Toronto travel agent for his help in obtaining visas from the department.

J. D. McFarlane, district superintendent, said his agents would question the immigrants and the travel agent.

The travel agent named in the story, Constantinos Minakakis of the Minakakis Travel Service, denied the charges.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I ran across a 25-year-old book, "Labby," by Hesketh Pearson, and read it with fascination. It's the biography of Henry Labouchere, an English politician who lived from 1831 to 1912 and was one of history's great originals.

Labouchere was born into an enormously rich banker's family and enjoyed a vast income throughout his life. His early career was typical of a rich man's career. He was expelled from school and sent abroad. For years he wandered around the world, having a wonderful time gambling and enjoying a rich varied life.

Casual Decision

A few years later he casually decided to run for Parliament. For some 10 years he was alternately elected and defeated; then his constituents got to like him and re-elected him for a solid 25 years.

On the side, he founded a weekly paper called "Truth," which was solely devoted to exposing frauds, crooks and swindlers. His victims usually

War Prediction

He was an outspoken foe of imperialism and condemned the Boer War. He predicted England's guarantee of Belgian neutrality would involve her in a war against Germany. He was for social security and similar welfare measures, but a sworn enemy of socialism.

In spite of his great wealth, he lived frugally, paying little attention to what he ate and

He never drank a drop of alcohol.

For years he lived with an actress who was married to someone else. Then she divorced her husband, married Labouchere and lived with him happily ever after.

He retired from Parliament at 74, bought a beautiful villa in Italy and never set foot in England again. When visitors tried to interest him in English affairs, he'd laugh.

Your Good Health

Fatigue, Irritability Menopause Signs

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Mr. What are the symptoms of menopause? Is it natural to be extremely nervous or a faint feeling, nausea or vomiting, head aches, chills, a tightness in the head, stinging in the ears that comes and goes?

I am 45 and have all these symptoms. My doctor tells me I am in excellent health but suspects I am beginning to go through the change. — Mrs. E. R.

While fatigue and irritability are common symptoms of menopause, the list you give is a little too long.

The ringing in the ears, plus nausea and vomiting are not symptoms associated with menopause. Rather, they raise a question of whether some middle ear condition, as labyrinthitis may not be present.

SEASICKNESS

The middle ear is related to the sense of balance. A disturbance there can have effects somewhat like seasickness.

Therefore if those symptoms continue, it might be well to have some additional medical investigation in that direction.

ODDS AND ENDS

Many people dump any symptoms that occur at about the appropriate age into the catchall answer of "menopause."

By the time any woman has reached the latter 40s she is likely to have some odds and ends of physical troubles than when she was in her 20s or 30s.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a woman of 46 who has had no children as likely to become pregnant as a younger woman? Does the incidence of pregnancy diminish among older women? — Mrs. H. R.

The likelihood of pregnancy diminishes in an older woman. It does not subside to zero, however. Until ovulation has ceased completely there is no reliable way to be positive.

The filter centre will be built in the near future adjacent to the provincial civil defence bunker. It will be big enough to house about a dozen people.

The scattered fallout reporting posts are modelled on the family fallout shelter plans distributed by the emergency measures organization but adapted to meet local conditions.

The men who will staff the posts have already received 30 minutes of instruction in the use of the measuring device.

This is the first time that strong war material has been used by Indonesia in action against West New Guinea, the communiqué said.

No mention was made of the number of Dutch ships in the engagement or of any damage to them. There were no Dutch casualties.

IN DIKARTTA

Indonesian President Sukarno called a special meeting of his operational command for the "liberation of West New Guinea" to discuss the action.

The government ordered the country's two major news agencies not to publish any reports on the incident for the time being. All news cables, by foreign news agencies relating to this incident also were being held up.

INVASION VANGUARD?

The Dutch news agency quoted the navy commander in Holland as saying it was thought the Indonesian naval craft might have been the vanguard for an invasion.

In The Hague, a Dutch defence ministry spokesman would not comment on this possibility. The general belief, however, is that any big invasion would be postponed until late this year.

COMMENT DENIED

The defence spokesman also declined to comment when asked if the naval clash meant a state of war existed between The Netherlands and Indonesia.

The encounter was in an area of the swampy, crocodile-infested southern coast where small bands of armed Indonesian infiltrators have been slipping ashore the Dutch way.

U.S. 'Probe' Finds Berlin Hopes Dim

LONDON (UPI)—Diplomatic sources yesterday said the Kremlin's uncompromising stand raises serious doubts about Soviet Premier Khrushchev's interest in a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis. This conclusion was based on analysis of the second "probe" by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson of Soviet intentions. There have been two rounds thus far in the "probe," undertaken by Thompson in Moscow. The first came on Jan. 2, the second last Friday. Neither brought a Berlin peace any nearer, diplomats said. Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, the sources said, merely reiterated Russia's known terms for a Berlin accord and turned down Allied plans, including the American proposal for international controls of free access routes to Berlin. The Soviets continue to demand that Berlin be turned into a "free city." They offered a four-power guarantee for freedom of access to it, but have declined a clearly defined commitment of the scope of the guarantee and of Western access rights. Authoritative sources said there is no basis in sight for four-power negotiations on Berlin. Hopes for an early change are said to be slim.

Gloom, Smiles Greet Major Trade Moves

Attitude to Market 'Narrow, Negative'

TORONTO (UPI)—Liberal leader Lester Pearson said yesterday a successful European Common Market is as important to this country's material welfare as NATO was to its defence a decade ago.

He charged the Diefenbaker administration with a "narrow and negative" attitude in regard to the "Inner Six."

Multi-Million Loot

Separate Trial Asked In Giant Robbery

CHICAGO (UPI)—An international lawyer yesterday asked a separate trial on charges involving history's biggest bank-type robbery—the $18,500,000 looting of a Canadian trust company.

The attorney for lawyer George E. Rosden, 54, of Washington, D.C., asked that his client be tried separately from three other men accused of attempting to dispose of the proceeds of the Canadian robbery.

COMPANY A FRONT

Rosden and another defendant were accused of using stolen bonds in attempting to set up a trust company in the tiny European principality of Liechtenstein. The company was to be a front in disposing of the Canadian loot, it was charged.

OTHERS CHARGED

Federal Judge Joseph Sam Perry said he would hear arguments on Rosden's request later.

The others charged with interstate transportation of stolen property were:

William W. Rabin, 51, Chicago, a business consultant.

Norman Rothman, 46, Surfside, Fla., a friend of ex-Cuban dictator Fulgenio Batista and one-time gambler and slot machine operator in Havana.

On the weekend of May 3-4, 1958, five burglars broke into the vaults of the Brockville, Ont., Trust and Savings Co. and fled with cash, jewelry and bonds valued at some $18,500,000.

Much of the loot, including most of $13,000,000 in registered securities, was recovered shortly after the theft when René Martin, 33, whose bank passbook was found at the scene, was arrested in Montreal. Martin, who said he had four accomplices but refused to name them, is serving a 12-year term in a Canadian prison.

Space Balloon Breaks Apart

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A huge U.S. space balloon broke apart hundreds of miles above the Atlantic Ocean yesterday as it was inflating to the size of a 13-storey building.

The breakup of the big ball, dubbed Big Shot, showered several pieces of aluminum coated plastic into the ocean about 600 miles southeast of the Cape. The pieces, illuminated brilliantly by the rays of the rising sun, provided a spectacular show for observers.

The 500-pound bundle of plastic sheeting was folded in a canister in the nose of a Thor rocket which blasted off in an experiment aimed at testing techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite.

Algerian Official Murdered

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Two Europeans, including a top municipal official, were slain yesterday in the western city of Oran as a wave of violence continued unabated in Algeria.

Victor Demare, Oran's mail and telecommunications director, was cut down by gunfire soon after military officials in Algiers said the first two weeks of 1962 were the bloodiest since the nationalist insurrection began more than seven years ago.

Demare, known as a supporter of President de Gaulle, recently received threatening letters from the European extremist Secret Army Organization, police said.

Bloody Weekend

Algerian Truce Could Be Near Paris Informs

ALGIERS (AP)—French civilian and military authorities in Algeria were informed by Paris Monday a cease-fire agreement between France and the Algerian rebels may be announced in the near future.

As a result, a powerful French military apparatus in Algeria's major cities was again ordered on the alert to "defend the republic" in the face of rising threats of armed action by the outlawed European Secret Army Organization.

Hundreds of European reserve officers living in Algiers have received warning cards from the secret army to stand ready to try to forestall a French agreement with the rebel Moslem nationalists.

EVEN CIVIL WAR

The secret army claims it will do anything—even plunge France into civil war—to prevent Algerian independence. The right-wingers contend an independent Algeria would become a Communist state.

CURTAIN LIBERTIES

Monday's events, accompanied by new tension and fear, came on the heels of one of the bloodiest weekends in Algeria's history. At least 50 persons were killed and more than 100 were wounded in terrorist raids and mob clashes.

More B.C. oil for B.C. ... coming up

Members of the crew of an Imperial rig drilling for oil in British Columbia.

Bringing you oil products at bargain prices is a big job. Right now, for example, Imperial is drilling 30 miles of hole at B.C.'s Boundary Lake oil field. Boundary Lake oil will travel 745 miles to Imperial's refinery near Vancouver, where it will be turned into products. And those products reach you at bargain prices. Take Esso gasoline, for example. On the average, it costs motorists throughout B.C. 6½ cents per pound. Compared with other commodities in everyday use, you won't find a better bargain. Milk, for example, sells on the average for 9½ cents a pound; soft drinks for 12½ cents a pound; even distilled water costs more than gasoline. And of the 6½ cents paid per pound for Esso gasoline, two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that bring you such things as social services and new highways. To bring you this bargain, Imperial has invested more than $60,000,000 in B.C. in the past ten years alone. Yet today, on the average, Imperial gets less for the Esso gasoline it sells than it did ten years ago...and Esso gasoline today is much more powerful than ten years ago.

Reluctant Laotian Prince Told of Civil War Danger

GENEVA (UPI)—The U.S. mounted a last minute effort yesterday to prevent right wing Premier Prince Boun Oum from toppling another conference of rival Laotian princes before it starts. The chances of success appeared slim. Boun Oum arrived yesterday from Laos and declared he has no intention of discussing the formation of a coalition government with neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and "Red" Prince Souphanouvong. America's Averell Harriman is reported to have warned Boun Oum that unless he accepts a compromise, Laos will face civil war.

Our Middle Name

THE GUARDIAN of the U.S. Treasury, its general accounting office, has fingerpointed a waste of $7,000,000 by the defence department through sending personnel overseas on commercial airliners instead of by military transport.

This seems an enormous sum, until one realizes that the total American defence budget is some 43 billion dollars; a figure that reduces the waste item to insignificant proportion.

There would be other waste no doubt in other military operations; the total of needless expenditures is possibly considerable. Canada has experienced its own waste where military matters are concerned. The equivalent of the U.S.'s guardian, the Canadian auditor-general, has fingerpointed it too; usually does so every year in fact.

The unfortunate thing is that in each case the exposure comes after the extravagance has been committed, nor is there much evidence that it puts a halt to useless or frilly spending.

Waste by defence departments perhaps cannot be condemned too idly, however; a society such as North America sustains which runs its economic pattern on the basis of planned obsolescence has no right to expect anything else. Waste is North America's middle name.

There isn't a household in Canada that does not throw out items that would be a godsend to people in some lands. The fancy packaging by stores of goods alone, not to speak of the vast extravagance in wrapping paper, reflects the high, wide and handsome view taken by society in general in practically all its dealings.

Few if any people practise economy in little things in North American society, and turnover is the magic word to which keeps the economic machine going. This has its virtue nevertheless, for without the ring-around-the-roses of somewhat careless spending the business world would come to a standstill.

High standards of living are probably impossible without this airy view of spending and—by other criterion—extravagant way of life. If everyone suddenly decided not to waste a single thing, but instead to pare expenses to the bone and make everything last twice or three times as long, the country would suffer vast depression pains.

There is limit even to pie-in-the-sky, of course, which is why treasury guardians point admonishing fingers when the defence dollar seems to be unwisely spent.

'Not for Us

SHIVERING BRITAIN may feel that it has had its weather woes compounded this week. For British weathermen, according to news from London, began yesterday to give temperature reports in terms of centigrade, abandoning Fahrenheit, and the bite in the air that last week was merely below freezing is now below zero.

Worse, spring when it comes promises only to bring temperatures of 10 or 15 degrees.

This alteration presumably is one of the series planned or contemplated in Britain in order to achieve conformity with continental Europe, the others including transfer of traffic to the right-hand side of the road and decimalization of pounds, shillings and pence. And while the abandonment of Fahrenheit, like the other changes if carried out, will erase some of Britain's distinctive character, the change perhaps makes scientific sense.

But spare us the same kind of sense! Fahrenheit's scale with the freezing point of water at 32 degrees and the boiling point at 212 is odd, all right, but it has its virtues by comparison with the centigrade rating in which freezing is zero and boiling 100.

How would Victoria look, advertising its winter temperatures as seldom falling far below zero, and its sea-cooled summer temperatures averaging 20 degrees or less?

Fortunately, there is no sign of Canada abandoning its old-fashioned measure of cold and warmth; Fahrenheit probably will remain the standard for this continent. But Victoria's Chamber of Commerce and publicity bureau should forever be on guard.

Cut to Fit

THE FABULOUS dress creators of Paris and New York—though long adored by countless millions of women throughout the world—have never been noted for being at all mundane in their outlook. In fact, it has been suspected for some time, by males in particular, that their very strength lies in the way they so blatantly exploit the spirit of gaiety and irresponsibility.

It therefore comes of something of a shock to find that these high priests and priestesses of fashion have now joined forces to bring to all those who worship at their many temples a gospel of practicality and realism.

What, for instance, could be more practical than a dress designed to help its wearer quit smoking, or one that would save her embarrassment on a windy day? Yet, these are but some of the ideas with which the savants of haute couture have greeted 1962.

And it was all so simple for them. In meeting the need of the new non-smoker they recognized the problem of fidgety hands and so provided more pockets for them to go into and more shawls, stoles and fold-overs for them to play with. Similarly, in dealing with skirts and windy days they presented petticoats and lingerie of the same floral pattern as the outer garments, thus relieving milady's worry about breeze-flipped skirts.

By demonstrating their ability to meet such vexatious problems through skillfully combining the art of camouflage with their deeper—perhaps inherent—understanding of the whims and fancies of their women customers, they have indeed proven their versatility.

Such masterly handling of dilemmas should not go unrecognized in a world so chock-a-block full of problems. Would it be too much to ask if they would extend their art to the male side of the world by perhaps starting on designs for some of our national and international figures—patterned, of course, to meet their individual requirements?

What could be better for Mr. Nehru, for instance, than a snappy pair of jodhpurs which would allow him to face two directions at the same time? Or a reversible jacket for Dr. Nkrumah—red on one side and British tweed on the other? Perhaps even Mr. Lester Pearson might welcome a stylish pair of slacks equipped with dozens of pockets in which to carry all his pre-election promises.

SAW a picture of the brigadier who's been named by President Sukarno as the West New Guinea theatre commander. He's looking at the camera with a smile and thus seems a pleasant chap.

And well he may be, in my view. At the head of an invading army, of course, he'd have to assume a grim look even if he didn't feel like it.

It's not certain Indonesia will carry out its threat to capture the land of the Papuans. The job might not be easy in any case. The Dutch would have something to say and I'd hope they'd say it.

Too many white nations are bowing too meekly to too many demands.

I read somewhere that Sukarno only thought about grabbing New Guinea when he remembered the Papuans weren't white.

They are black, however, not brown; and have no relation to Indonesia. Left to themselves as the Dutch promise they will be, given a little transitional time, they probably have no wish to be subjected to a new colonial master.

The color of skins has nothing to do with imperialism, you know; it's the covetous intent that is the nub of the thing.

There is a movement afoot to raise a fund to underwrite a study of the causes of war. Here in the South Seas is one big criterion of the cause—ego, envy and greed.

Man has been at war, unfortunately, ever since he came out of the cave; but his recorded history reflects these elements down through the centuries.

If there had been no personal ego to satisfy, no grandiose desires to get what others might have, no greedy love of possessions—this might always have been a wonderful world.

The same grandiosity and covetousness sparks most of the troubles of today. Indonesia doesn't need New Guinea, or that part of it on which the jealous eyes are now fixed—and to a degree because its possession would be another defeat for the white man.

New Guinea, by all accounts, would be no asset to Indonesia, nor would it increase the latter's wealth or strength. It's a swampy inhospitable land, and its people would be reluctant settlers.

A brown overlord is not necessarily better than a white one. He might easily be far worse.

But it would boost the Sukarno ego to take it over, thereby dispossessing someone else.

The age-old attribute of conquerors. Indonesia, presumably, has plenty to do to develop its own skills, progress and prosperity. Nobody is threatening it, and if it minded its own business Mr. Sukarno could be usefully and busily employed until he leaves this mortal scene.

This injunction is applicable to other envious nations. Were Soviet Russia, for example, to pull in its world-wide horns and ambitions and be content with its own vast territories, all would be well. And a great nation it could still be.

Russia would be happier, too, without looking for further areas to conquer, whether by overt action or subtle penetration. The same goes for Red China, and each of them, surely, has plenty of tasks at home that demand priority of attention.

But ego, envy and greed still rule most of mankind, and these are the root causes of war and international quarrels.

A General Reshuffling

By RUTHVEN E. LIBBY

Yemen, he chose to break off the association, though by so doing he has isolated Egypt from the rest of the Arab world.

The Lebanese stout champions of private enterprise, never wanted any part of Nasserism, and told him so.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia has always regarded Nasser with distrust. Jordan's King Hussein broke with him at the time of the Syrian revolt.

Nasser never has recognized the New Syrian government of Premier Mamoun Kuzbari; and Egypt and Iraq are on opposite sides of the Kuwait issue. Hence, rather than being the fair-haired boy of the Arab world, Gamal Abdel currently is in the doghouse. While it is not quite accurate to say that his eclipse is temporary or permanent, it has left a political vacuum, it has diminished the stability of an area which has been shaky since it was artificially divided by the British and French after the Second World War.

Furthermore, something new has been added. Khrushchev's break with Albania means that the new, modern submarine base which the Soviets built near Valona on the Adriatic is no longer available to the Soviet Navy. There are rumors that the U.S.S.R. is pressing Nasser for a replacement at Alexandria. This Cairo holy denial, and it seems unlikely that Nasser willingly would acquiesce in any such arrangement. He is, however, beholden to the U.S.S.R. for equipment for his armed forces, and the Soviets definitely want a submarine base somewhere in the eastern Mediterranean.

Ever alert for an opportu-

Actually, it is logical for Iraq and Syria to get together. Geographically contiguous, with populations similar in both racial and religious groupings, and as late as 1920 common subjects of King Faisal (who was thrown out of Syria by the French), the two countries have far more in common than Syria and Egypt ever had. Both countries have an abundance of fertile soil and ample room for their people; there is no land shortage and no overpopulation problem. There is no basic reason why living standards in both countries cannot be improved substantially, given a modicum of political stability and intelligent management. Even Syria's greatest problem, drought, can be licked by flood control and irrigation projects along the Euphrates River, which could be financed by Iraqi oil revenues to the mutual benefit of both countries.

It is true, of course, that immediately following the Iraqi revolution of July 1958, Kasim's regime was violently anti-West, primarily as a reaction against the strongly pro-Western but ruthless and iron rule of Nuri al-Said. It is also true that the Communists, who were very active in the new regime, came close to excluding the West from Iraqi trade and economy. But the people themselves rebelled.

Long accustomed to Western cars, tractors, machinery and equipment which worked, they saw no reason why they should be forced to buy shoddy Soviet substitutes which did not.

Kasim himself soon became disenchanted with the Iraqi Communists, whose violent excesses were checked in mid-1958 only an order from Moscow.

Although the Communist party is one of the three legal parties in Iraq, Kasim steadily has weeded out Communists from key government positions, from the directorship of Radio Baghdad, and from his cabinet; banned the principal Communist newspaper, and otherwise generally cleaned house.

Although he is not overpopular in his own country (in fact, it is touch and go as to whether he can hang on to his office), the Communists are less so, probably because the people know that the country's major source of income is from the oil produced by a Western concern and sold in Europe for hard cash. Whether Kasim survives or not, the general orientation of the new Syria-Iraq combine seems to be toward the West.

Report From Ottawa

Imagined Rebellion

By ARTHUR BLANKLEY

A CIRCUOUS explanation has been advanced for the cabinet reshuffle that was.

It has been erected painstakingly about the theory that Prime Minister Diefenbaker had never planned any thoroughgoing cabinet reorganization in the first place, that persistent and generally prevalent reports that such changes were imminent were imaginative works of fiction.

According to this theory, the cabinet's historic trek to Quebec was never intended to produce more than the appointment of one new Quebec cabinet representative, several honorary appointments to the Privy Council and the designation of a St. Hyacinthe resident as a member of the National Advisory Council.

The theory has been a source of some comfort to Conservative backbenchers who, viewing developments from a distance, had felt that the government hadn't been at its best in preparing for, and performing, its visit to the historic Citadel.

The only thing wrong with the theory is that it can't be stretched to cover the facts.

Whatever he may have said of the evils of speculation, gossip and rumor, the prime minister has not denied that he planned to reorganize his cabinet and that this reorganization was to have been timed to coincide with the Quebec journey. He is not in a position to deny it now.

Cabinet changes are rarely, if ever, made without at least some measure of consultation.

Consultation occurred in this case. The results were not encouraging. As originally planned, the proposed cabinet changes failed to attract the enthusiastic support of some of the prime minister's trusted advisers. Few prime ministers, and Mr. Diefenbaker is not among them, would feel that they could afford to dismiss lightly the results of such consultation.

The original plan, it would appear, was discarded. But the matter wasn't dropped there. An amended plan for cabinet reorganization was devised. It is this amended plan, apparently, which contemplated State Secretary Noel Dorion's appointment as minister of justice. This plan too, encountered obstacles, among them the letter written over his name, thanking certain members of the Quebec liquor police for assistance rendered in Mr. Dorion's 1958 election.

In the end, and not long before members of the ministry boarded trains and planes for Quebec City, all plans for cabinet changes were dropped. Announcements following the historic Quebec session of the federal cabinet tended to be anticlimactic, as a result.

But while the reports that a cabinet reorganization was in the making were accurate enough in the main, and in line with events as they developed, these same reports have given rise to others of the post-mortem variety for which no foundation is apparent.

The abrupt cancellation of planned cabinet changes led some observers to speculate that this was attributable to a cabinet "rebellion." That the rebel forces had triumphed in the showdown that followed, that Prime Minister Diefenbaker was no longer master of his own cabinet, that in his place a triumvirate comprising Mr. Diefenbaker, Finance Minister Fleming and Justice Minister E. D. Fulton prevailed.

This theory, too, is an intriguing one that cannot be stretched to cover the facts.

There was no cabinet rebellion. There was nothing approaching a cabinet rebellion. The only basis that the theory seems to have in fact—and it is remarkably slight—is that those whose views the prime minister sought with respect to possible cabinet changes, expressed them and approved them with candor. Acting on the advice he had received, Mr. Diefenbaker dropped his plans for important cabinet changes, for the time being at least.

Mr. Diefenbaker's position as cabinet leader has not been challenged at any time since he became prime minister in 1957. It was not challenged before, during or after the Quebec visit. It is not challenged now.

It has been reported—and the reports seem to be accurate—that well before any cabinet changes were to be made, it was made clear to Mr. Diefenbaker that the minister of finance, Mr. Fleming, was reluctant to accept a move from his portfolio at a time when he was under criticism and that he might, in certain circumstances, feel obliged to tender his resignation. Mr. Fleming is a key figure in the cabinet. His loss would be felt.

Mr. Fulton, for his part, has been reported as ready to accept a shift to another portfolio, even one with less prestige attached, in the interests of party and ministerial loyalty, though he may have entertained misgivings about the cabinet changes as planned. What a rebellion!

Pear-Shaped, Lopsided

Imperfect World

EVER since Magellan proved that the earth is round, scientists have been trying to prove him slightly wrong.

As early as the fifth century B.C. the Greek philosopher Parmenides conceived of the planet as a sphere. Newton noted its irregularities in shape. Subsequent generations were taught that the earth is an oblate spheroid, an object flattened a little at the poles. The National Geographic Society says.

Scientists learned during the International Geophysical Year in 1957-58 that the earth is somewhat pear-shaped. Recent calculations by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory indicate that it is a bit lopsided as well.

If the earth should be sliced in half at the equator, a bulge would show in the Atlantic just off eastern Brazil. Thus the earth is now considered an irregular ellipsoid with three axes.

The imperfections are minor, considering the earth's vast size. The equatorial circle, 24,902.29 miles, is only 41.84 miles longer than the circumference from pole to pole. To an observer on the moon the earth would appear as sleekly perfect as a billiard ball.

Knowledge of the earth's precise shape is intensely important in the age of missiles and satellites. Deviations affect the force of gravity, thus the motion and course of orbiting space vehicles.

The earth is not only asymmetrical; its crust is wrinkled into mountains and valleys born on land and in the sea. Moreover, the earth's contours are slowly but constantly changing. Scandinavia is rising, for instance, apparently in compensation for the region's depression in the last Ice Age. The development of new types of gravity meters, which can be used in submarines and airplanes, is enabling geophysicists to get a true picture of the earth's uneven surface.

The nuclear submarine Triton, during its historic submerged voyage around the world, made the first continuous, circumferential profile by measuring the pull of gravity as it glided along. Navy hydrographers are continuing the work begun by Triton, to obtain similar continuous gravity records all over the world.

Ancient peoples generally regarded the world as a flat disk surrounded by water. This concept began to change in Greece's golden age when the inquiring minds of philosophers and mathematicians noted meaningful phenomena: the disappearance first of a ship's hull beyond the horizon; the circular shape cast by the earth on the moon during an eclipse; the alteration in the heavens' appearance as one travels from place to place. The savants concluded that the earth must be a sphere.

On this assumption, Eratosthenes (276-194 B.C.) made the first reliable measurement of the earth's circumference. His figure in stadia, which have no modern equivalent, is reckoned by some authorities to be the remarkably accurate equivalent of 25,000 miles.

The man-in-the-street, however, did not really believe the earth was round until explorers had actually sailed around it. And it was Newton (1642-1727) who advanced the theory that the revolving planet must be larger in its equatorial zone because of centrifugal force.

Monstrosities

Are the citizens of Victoria going to sit quietly by and watch our distinctive cluster lights turned into monstrosities?

Come into Victoria at night, as a visitor might do, and view the so-called "Centennial Candelabra" outside the City Hall. Last night I did and was pleasantly struck by the centennial sign at the "roundabout," then, as I neared the centre of the city, I saw what looked like very ugly forgotten Christmas decorations!

Is public money to be spent so foolishly? Let us demand not only that this conversion be stopped but that those standards already tampered with, be restored to their normal appearance.

(Mrs.) DOROTHY H. CAREY.

Gift Stamps

An interesting sidelight on the premium stamp controversy is seen in a study of what the customer actually receives.

For example, one of the prizes offered can be bought in many local stores for $29. It is offered "free" to those who buy groceries to complete 15 books containing 50 pages counting 30 10-cent stamps to a page with a total of $150 each book; a grand total of $2,250. It would take at least a year for the average family to eat that much, and if it did, the prize would amount to a little more than one per cent.

The promoters know that not all customers will collect their stamps, and those who do will mislay many. The end result of all this ballyhoo may not amount to half of one per cent, going to the public in this new gimmick. Any grocer will tell you he can beat this in better, quicker service and lower prices. A lady correspondent in your columns says it is up to the housewives to "legislate" against stamps rather than the government. Maybe she's right.

Financial Trap

The U.S.A., which recently twisted Britain's arm to apply for entry into the E.C.M., apparently has had a change of heart and now fears that a united Europe and a strong E.C.M. would be detrimental to U.S. trade; but Mr. Kennedy need not worry. I doubt if Great Britain will be allowed to become fully entangled in this high financial trap. Canada should continue to oppose Britain's entry and push hard for free trade within the Commonwealth—therein lies the solution.

Brotherly Love

Thoughtful people will share your concern at the proposed use of Christmas Island as a testing site for nuclear weapons. But I cannot support your suggestion that Antarctica is an appropriate site. Such a position assumes that the values we wish to preserve against communism can be protected by military means.

Scientists and philosophers by the score are convinced that no one will win a nuclear war. The use of force cannot protect our democratic rights and individual liberty against communism or any other form of totalitarianism. Our freedom can be protected only by each citizen accepting his individual responsibility to put new life into our democratic institutions so they may be truly effective.

Above all we must be willing to reject those philosophies and practices which can be shown to act against the welfare of mankind. There is nothing to be gained by cowering behind a pile of nuclear weapons. The only way to preserve civilization is to step out boldly and act upon the principles of freedom and brotherly love to which we have given lip-service for so long.

(Mrs.) RUTH MORTON.

Peace Groups

I disagree with your editorial on peace movements and agree with Dawson Gordon that they are, some unwittingly, others deliberately, tools of the Communists. They all ignore this fact, repeatedly announced by the U.S.S.R. and Red China too, that their aim is enslavement of the world.

That is why we must have united, strong military defenses to deter attack, the only hope, and do all we can to settle vital issues on that basis.

Princess Royal Slated For Mid-June Visit

Visit to Victoria by the Princess Royal is tentatively included in her itinerary for June 15 and 16.

"She has given a general indication that it would be agreeable to her," Mayor R. B. Wilson was told yesterday in a letter from the federal department of external affairs.

City officials are preparing a suggested program for Princess Mary, honorary colonel of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. The program will have to be sent to Ottawa for approval.

At present it appears likely Princess Mary will be given a civic reception June 15, and will present new colors to the Canadian Scottish June 16, before leaving Victoria.

A suggestion by Victoria Labor Council's centennial committee might result in Victoria residents being given a special holiday Aug. 2 to mark the actual date in 1962 when Victoria became a city.

The suggestion, forwarded by Victoria centennial committee, will be put to city council Friday afternoon.

Store Food in North...in Case

OTTAWA (UPI)—An Arctic trapper yesterday called for preparations to help Canada's north survive any nuclear war.

Knut Lang of Aklavik, an elected member of the council of the Northwest Territories, said he thought chances were slight a nuclear bomb would fall on Canada's north. But he said a breakdown in transportation in southern Canada resulting from an attack could leave the north short of food and other supplies.

Mr. Lang told a council meeting 15 months supply of food should be stored in hospitals and other public institutions.

"Northern people are not in the habit of worrying about the future," the grizzled trapper said. "Come what may—the north will survive."

Mr. Lang also said his Mackenzie Delta area was depressed and that jobs were needed. He said some people were drawing relief rations for the first time in their lives.

E. J. (Scotty) Gail, the Yellowknife member, said people in his area were more optimistic than they have been at any time in the past 10 years. He credited this to new gold claims, the reopening of some old mines, the proposed Pine Point railway and the opening of a highway to the south.

A. P. Carey, a bush pilot and elected member, said he was "begging" the council to hold a plebiscite in Fort Smith to see if the people there wanted to continue with fluoridation. He said he did not think "the good Lord" put fluoride in the rivers and streams of Africa to produce the white teeth of the Negroes there.

Dennis Collican, Ottawa businessman and a government-appointed member of the mine-man council, said the council should make sure that the Eskimos, Indians and white students receive equal treatment at schools. He noted the Northwest Territories was the only area where the three races were taught in the same class rooms.

Choice for Everyone Roblin Health Rule

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Roblin of Manitoba advocated a federal-provincial medical insurance scheme Monday in which Ottawa would establish "ground rules" and help pay the shot while leaving the province free to work out administration.

Mr. Roblin, first witness as the royal commission on health services opened hearings here, called for per-capita federal grants to help finance such a scheme.

He insisted, however, the proposed plan should be voluntary for both the medical profession and the citizenry.

He conceded a compulsory scheme might work in Canada as it has in some other countries but "if it is not essential why have it?"

At stake is a payroll-deduction system of collecting dues running into millions.

The Oil Workers want the Appeal Court to declare its contract with Imperial Oil binding despite the new law.

Mr. Justice Norman Whitaker upheld the company in Supreme Court last August.

Arguing the provincial legislation was ultra vires, Mr. Berger said the ban not only barred use of union funds for provincial political campaigns, but applied in the municipal and federal field as well.

"The only source of legislation over political rights is the British North American Act," he said.

He said the B.C. amendments also conflicted with the Dominion Elections Act, which entitles any "individual, corporation or association" to make contributions to election expenses.

He said the mention of associations in the federal act indicated parliament had "contemplated contributions from trade unions."

Iron Curtain Countries World Soccer Threats

By MICHAEL PRENTICE

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia and other Iron Curtain countries are expected to provide the biggest challenge to Brazilian supremacy in the World Soccer Cup finals this year.

The finals will be played in Chile in May and June. The defending champion Brazilians will be more dangerous than ever in a country where they are familiar with the climate and food, but the Eastern European nations are optimistic.

After two years of preliminary play, 16 teams have qualified for the final stages of the seventh World Cup.

Russia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary are rated as having the best chance to dethrone Brazil.

The other qualifying teams are Bulgaria, England, Chile, Switzerland, West Germany, Italy, Argentina, Uruguay, Mexico, Colombia and Spain.

The Brazilians first won the cup—never held by an Iron Curtain country—in Sweden four years ago when they knocked off the Swedes 5-2 with a display which stunned the soccer world.

They have perhaps the greatest player in the world in 21-year-old Edson do Nascimento, known to international soccer fans by his nickname "Pele." If he is in top form, Brazil may be unbeatable.

But Russia returned from a recent tour of South America full of confidence. The Soviets knocked off Argentina, Chile and Uruguay, the three South American teams rated just behind Brazil.

Trainer Garril Kachalan said: "The climate doesn't worry us. The food was good, the fields were splendid and the crowds in Chile the best we met on the tour."

A CHINK?

Lajos Baroti, Hungarian team captain, thinks he has discovered a chink in the South Americans' armor.

"The South Americans are great individualists, but they hold on to the ball longer than necessary to demonstrate their high technical ability," Baroti says. "When they fail to get an early goal they become unsettled and then anything can happen."

WELL-DRILLED

Czechoslovakia, which just scraped into the finals after a playoff against Scotland, has a well-drilled team suited to the tough program in Chile.

The chances of a West European team reaching the final are not so bright.

Sweden, finalist last time, and semi-finalist France both have been eliminated. Of the remainder, none has been outstanding.

Jacobs Wins Golf Playoff

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Tommy Jacobs clinched a smashing rally by making a 14-foot putt on the first extra hole to defeat Johnny Pott and win the $2,500 first prize in $25,000 San Diego Open golf tournament Sunday.

Jacobs flashed around the Stardust Country Club in a fine 65 in Sunday's final 18 holes to tie with Pott for the lead at 277.

Pott shot a 69, finishing behind Jacobs, as both caught up passed Mike Souchak and Bob Goulby, the leaders after 63 holes.

George Bayler, whose last round 64 was the best round of the meet, and Art Wall also passed Goulby and Souchak. Bayler and Wall wound up in a third place tie with 279 to win $1,500 each. Pott took home $2,500.

Souchak, Goulby and Jay Hobert all wound up at 279 and won $1,000 each.

At 280, and winning $500 each, were Gary Player, Gardner Dickinson, Eric Monti, Joe Campbell and Al Friedman. At 281 and winning $250 each were Bud Holcher and Sam Reynolds. A stroke back and pocketing $500 each were Jack Nicklaus, Bobby Nichols, Billy Casper, Gene Littler, Herbert Hunt and Al Balding, of Toronto.

Jerry Magee of Toronto won $622 for his 285. George Knudson of Winnipeg, a 286, Stan Leonard of Vancouver a 287 and Wilf Homenick of Winnipeg a 289.

KOD LAYER, Wimbledon champion, Sunday won the Australian men's singles tennis championship with an 8-6, 6-4, 6-4 win over Roy Emerson, his partner in winning the doubles title.

Margaret Smith, Australian top woman player, won the ladies' singles with a 6-0, 6-2 win over Jan Lehane.

IRVING, a veteran outfielder who saw action with six major league clubs, has been named manager of the Hawaiian Islanders of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

KEVIN BERRY, a 16-year-old Sidney schoolboy, has set a new world record of 213.8 minutes for the men's 220 yards butterfly swim.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Ron MacLeod made a good start in his bid to win the Victoria district winter medal competition for the third time in succession, when he turned in a one over par 71 at Uplands Sunday.

This first round total gave the Jasper pro a two-stroke lead over Dick Munn, the assistant pro from Banff, while two more pros filled third and fourth positions, Laurie Carroll of Victoria club and his assistant, Roy Chappell.

With wintry showers and a heavy wind, conditions made it difficult for anyone to equal par, and some of the players, including city champion Laurie Kerr, found the greens tricky. He took three putts on six greens in his 76.

The second round will be played in February at Oak Bay, where MacLeod is very much at home. It looks as if he is going to be difficult to catch. In 1960, Ron won both district medals.

The low net was won by Boyd Brooks, a Gorge Vale navyman who only took up the game two years ago. He was around in 76, less six, for 70.

It will be back to buttons play again Sunday when the Victoria club will host the open and junior matches.

Dick Munn and Carey Greenwood, Cedar Hill's first winners in the event, will make a first defence, this time against a formidable Colwood team of experienced golfers in Laurie Kerr and George Andrews.

It should be a first-class match with lots of color, Kerr and Munn are old rivals, having competed in the final of the B.C. Amateur at Uplands two years ago when Kerr won his title. Greenwood who is noted for his long hitting, was the star when the Cedar Hill boys beat Watson Finley and Fred Butler for the buttons.

In the junior buttons, John Hadfield and Pete Gillan of Uplands, who have been in possession for some time, take on a Gorge Vale pair, Earl Francis and Rick Nutt. Like the open buttons, this game will be played at Victoria.

The Victoria club's two contending teams for the open buttons, went to the last hole the other day to decide who would represent the club at Colwood on January 28.

Laurie Carroll and George Bigelow just managed to edge out Ron MacLeod and Roy Chappell, although the latter gave them a fright with an eagle three at the 17th.

Carroll and Bigelow are perhaps the district's most powerful golf team. They held the buttons from September until December, and when they lost them, MacLeod was substituting for the Doc.

The date of the annual general meeting of the Victoria District Committee has been changed to Thursday evening, Feb. 1. Originally called for Feb. 2, it had to be changed as accommodation was not available on the latter date. The meeting will be held at Gorge Vale.

Mike Turky, the 16 handicap golfer from Royal Colwood who recently won the invitational open at Waikiki, Honolulu, with a net 63, explains that the Hawaiian palms—about the only hazards around the Waikiki course—were like string beans compared to the majestic firs that line the Colwood fairways. What with getting into no trouble that way and knocking in half a dozen putts from over 300 feet, there's no wonder Mike likes Waikiki.

Incidentally, the Colwood man had no intention of entering the tournament. He just went along looking for a game, found there was a competition, and was persuaded to enter—even if he did not have his accredited club handicap along with him.

That was why, when he won, the Waikiki boys phoned through to Colwood to confirm his handicap.

While on the subject of Hawaiian golf, a press release tells me that two new courses to be designed by Robert Trent Jones on 800 acres at Maui. They are to be known as the Royal Lahaina Golf Club and they will have 30 de luxe golf cottages on a beach adjacent to the courses.

It all sounds very attractive although the accuracy of the publicity may be taken with a pinch of salt because the writer says the courses will equal a number of world-famed seaside links including, and we quote "The English courses at St. Andrews, Troon, Princess Margaret and Carnoustie."

In the first place we suppose the Princess Margaret is meant to be the Princess Course at Sandwich and the course at the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers at Gullane rolled into one.

In the second, if we exclude Princess, all the courses mentioned are in Scotland and not in England.

However, we will excuse them for their error, for the concept of Poya Lahaina sounds extremely attractive, even if a "Royal" title in a republic sounds anomalous.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Edmonton Flyers slipped past the San Francisco Seals 4-3 in a Western Hockey League game Monday night after blowing a 3-1 lead in the first period. The game ended in a fracas which drew a match penalty for John Mizuk of Edmonton.

The Flyers flew off the handle after referee Joe Johns called an offside against them seconds before the final buzzer and after the whistle Mizuk came up behind Johns and knocked him to the ice.

Seal goalie Bev Bentley was back in the net after a 10-game vacation.

In Seattle, Al Leader, president of the WHL, said Mizuk was suspended indefinitely for charging Johns. He said a fine would be set "when I get all the particulars."

Alberta Junior Wins Big One

Alberta Junior ladies' champion of last season, Gail Riley, defeated Diana Godfrey, 11-6, 11-5, in a tightly fought badminton singles match last night as the City Open Tournament began at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club courts.

Miss Godfrey was fourth ranked in the tournament.

In men's doubles, Ron Knott and Russ Atkinson upset Ivar Goodenough and Charlie Kivan, 15-12, 12-15, 15-13.

Impossible? Well, It Happened

Bowlers' eyes bugged in disbelief yesterday afternoon at Aurora Lanes during regular action in the Colist Nite-Side Tenpin League when Eddie Borde, who was having a good afternoon left things looking exactly like this on alley 16. His "hit" was at least reasonably close to the 1-3 pocket on a fast delivery ball but the ball never left the alley. It piled up somewhere between the No. 2 and No. 5 pins, rolled slowly over to come to rest alongside the No. 8 pin. Eddie, however, failed to make the rare 8-9-10 split to climax the freest shot of this or any other tenpin season. (Colonist photo.)

Mrs. Martin's Victoria Club Rink Wins Vancouver Island Honors

As had been suspected at the time, the key game came on Friday night, in the third draw, when Mrs. Martin defeated Mrs. Serjeant, 12-6. It was the only game the Nanaimo rink, which had defeated B.C. champion Marg Fuller in Nanaimo playdowns, was to lose.

NEEDED LEAD

On Sunday, a big early lead was needed as Mrs. McCaw came back strongly on the late ends to leave the issue in doubt right down to the last end.

Four on the second and fifth ends enabled Mrs. Martin to grab a 9-3 lead, and she was ahead by 11-4 after seven ends.

Mrs. McCaw fought back with three on the eighth and stole a point on the ninth to make it interesting, but being three down with last rock on the final end proved a bit too much although she did manage to steal another point.

Four rinks will play in the district final, the winner carrying on to the provincial final, at Penticton Feb. 13-15, against three other district winners. The ultimate award is a chance to play in the second annual Canadian final, scheduled for Regina later next month.

FINAL DRAW

Set 'Em Up Again, Coach New York in Big Tailspin

New York Rangers. It seems, are looking for another party at the expense of coach Doug Harvey.

Harvey called his charges together in a New York bar late in December when they had slipped to 1-11-8 for the season after a first start. They rewarded him with three whopping victories in a row, and it appeared again that the Rangers might hold on in the National Hockey League's first four.

It doesn't look that way any more. The Rangers have lost five in a row and scored only eight times in the streak. They are three points behind the third-place Chicago Black Hawks and only one point ahead of the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings, who have a game in hand.

The Wings moved close on Sunday night by nipping the New Yorkers, 2-1, on Detroit ice, scoring the last two goals.

Toronto	8	3	1	17
Chicago	7	4	1	15
New York	6	5	1	13
Detroit	5	6	1	11
Boston	4	7	1	9

Canadiens tacked one point to their slim lead by outscoring the Bruins, 4-1, in Boston.

Toronto's second-place Maple Leafs failed to hold a two-goal lead in Chicago and had to settle for a 2-2 tie with the now-dangerous Hawks.

It put Plante another goal ahead of Toronto's Johnny Bower in the battle for the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalkeeper who plays the most games for the club which permits the fewest number of goals.

Canadiens have permitted only 20 goals in 42 games, the Leafs have been scored on 105 times in one less game.

Leafs Dominate Team

Harvey Tops Half-Way Poll

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Toronto Maple Leafs dominated the first half balloting for the National Hockey League's all-star team today with three selections, but New York Ranger playing-coach Doug Harvey was the top point man.

The Leafs, who trail the Montreal Canadiens by two points, placed left winger Frank Mahovlich, centre Red Kelly and defenceman Carl Brewer on the first team. Ranger right winger Andy Bathgate and Montreal goalie Jacques Plante round out the first team.

Hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities voted on the basis of the player's performance for the first 35 games of the 70-game schedule.

A second ballot will be cast at the end of the season and the players with the highest aggregate point total will be named to the final all-star team. Points are awarded on a basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third.

Harvey, perennial all-star and winner of the Norris trophy as the NHL's best defenceman, received 85 of a possible 90 points in the mid-way voting. He has been a unanimous choice on several previous occasions. Mahovlich, next with 77 points, followed by Plante with 73, Bathgate with 69, Brewer with 39 and Kelly with 30.

The voting was closer than usual. Kelly edged Richard by only two points, while Brewer squeezed in ahead of Evans by only three points.

The wide margin between Plante and Bower was somewhat of a surprise. Montreal's masked netminder outpolled Bower by a margin of 73-49, despite the fact Bower was the first half leader in goals allowed.

Martin Shifts Posts

A reorganization involving three senior administrative positions in the provincial health branch was announced yesterday by Health Minister Eric Martin.

Dr. A. A. Larsen, consultant in epidemiology—the study of epidemics—with the health branch and stationed in Vancouver for several years, will come to Victoria to be director of the division of epidemiology. The move is designed to strengthen the province-wide organization of facilities for the prevention and control of communicable diseases.

Dr. G. D. M. Kettys, director of the Upper Fraser Valley health unit at Chilliwack, will take up a new appointment at the provincial health laboratory in Vancouver in a move that recognizes the rapidly growing importance of the virus laboratory in the public health field.

Dr. Kettys will leave Vancouver this fall for special training in modern techniques and procedures in virology and on his return will head B.C.'s first virus laboratory.

Screaming Women Ejected After Sons' Guilty Verdict

NELSON (CP)—Twenty screaming women had to be removed from an assize court here yesterday after two Sons of Freedom were found guilty on two counts of placing explosives under a church.

Sons of Freedom Dougbores Fred Jmaoff, 37, and Alex Barisoff, 24, were found guilty by an all-male jury that deliberated for one hour and 37 minutes.

As the verdict was announced, Freedomite women in the galleries shouted: "They're not guilty. They're not guilty. That's not true. If they're guilty, then we're guilty."

WOMEN PUNCHED OUT

Mr. Justice Norman Winkler ordered the women removed and when they refused to leave on their own accord they were pushed out. Six RCMP constables had to pick some up and carry them.

Jmaoff and Barisoff were the first of 78 Freedomites arrested in the last couple of months in an RCMP crackdown to stand trial at a special assize.

THREE PAINTED

Three women, who appeared to be fainting, were lifted from the court house onto the sidewalk.

Police held a dog throughout the entire incident. At one stage, a Freedomite screamed: "You call yourselves Christians and you turn the dog on us."

Garden Notes

Bouquet for Brides

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRBS

When a young couple first acquires a home, the first garden will almost always be filled with annual flowers grown from plants purchased by the down from the garden centres and plant stalls around town. This is about the easiest and quickest way to get a fine splash of color, but sooner or later a craving develops for the more permanent plants—the hardy herbaceous perennials.

The planning and planting of a perennial border is quite an adventure, for there is such a wealth of plant material to be considered. For the novice gardener, I think it is best to make a start with the easy doers, sticking to the sturdy, dependable, free-flowering and easy-to-grow kinds, leaving the fussier and more miffy species until more experience has been acquired.

High on the list of perennials for beginners I would rate the peony. The ability of this plant to survive under almost any conditions is evident from its history—some forms have come down to us practically unchanged from the time of the ancient Romans. And while the season of bloom is rather short, the plants are neat and attractive even when out of flower.

Another good plant for the beginner is the Day lily. I remember, on one occasion some years ago, visiting a very old neglected garden almost completely overgrown with weeds.

While most of the garden flowers had been crowded out or smothered, there were several clumps of Day lilies and peonies blooming quite happily in the tangled undergrowth. This speaks well for their tenacity.

The flowers in the neglected garden were the old pale yellow Day lilies, known to our grandmothers as the Lemon Day lily, but there are hybrids available today in a very wide range of colors, including pink, orange, scarlet and mahogany. These are just as tough and reliable as the yellow kinds. Incidentally, when you go to buy the roots of the Day lily, they will probably be listed in the catalogue under their proper name, hemerocallis.

Another perennial of the easiest possible culture is the kniphofia, pronounced nip-HOFF-ee-a and perhaps known better under its popular nickname of Red Hot Poker. A native of East and South Africa, the plant was at one time believed to be tender in our kind of a climate, and certainly the earlier varieties did tend to die off in severe winters, but it is known now that wet rather than cold is the enemy of the Red Hot Poker. Simply bundle up and tie the evergreen leaves in the late fall so the rain can't get into the centre crown, and they are as hardy as the peony.

Most of our common perennials are best grown from purchased roots, as they take too long to raise from seed—peonies, for instance, are four to five years reaching the flowering stage. Three easy doers which are practicable from seed, though, are geranium, gaillardia and the glorious daisy.

Geranium is related to the strawberry plant, suitable for the front row in the border standing about a foot tall with long-stemmed flowers in yellow or scarlet, grand for cutting. Seeds sown this spring will start blooming next year and every year thereafter, and especially good plants can be lifted and divided every second year to get more plants.

Gaillardia, sometimes known as blanket flower, is a daisy-like bloom, very handsome with fringed petals in orange or orange-red, and with a purple eye.

The glorious daisy is a gorgeous flower, some 30 inches tall, developed from the wild black-eyed Susan. The blooms are a good five inches across, orange or burnt orange with a mahogany centre. If the seeds are given an early start indoors or under glass, the plants may be had in bloom the same year.

Judges Writhe at TV Fare

MONTE CARLO—I'm here as a judge—one of them—of the second International Television Festival of Monte Carlo and, as this is written, the festival is yet young (there are unimaginable horrors ahead of us) but it's already been immensely instructive.

Here with me as co-conspirators are Marcel Achard and Marcel Pagnol, two of France's most honored playwrights and both members of the French Academy; Paddy Chayevsky, one of America's best playwrights; Tetsuro Furuhashi, Japanese ambassador to France; Konstantin Koussakov, vice-president of the state committee for radio and television in the Soviet Union—and several others.

And what are all these distinguished eyeballs focussed on? Well, for one thing, "The Affairs of Anatol," which is an American entry—form KNX in Los Angeles, directed by that well-known Viennese, Fritz Stern. Of course, a single station hasn't the equipment or money to mount a really good production, so I hurriedly skip over the acting (which is paper mache), the scenery (same), the direction (bad Lubitsch), to ask what in hell was this thing doing here in the first place? This is the sort of TV show I wouldn't sit through on a dull Tuesday night in Los Angeles. So I come 4,000 miles to see it at a TV festival on another continent? Anyway, it went on and on for what seemed several days while the distinguished bottoms writhed. Mr. Chayevsky fell asleep and snored in protest.

Right in the middle of this pastiche, the Russians walked in. What was (inspiring on the TV screen) confirmed their worst suspicions about us. Corrupt. Frivolous. Capitalistic. Decadent. Rotten to the core.

But then later in the afternoon, it was their turn. A Russian entry called "The Music of Verdi."

"Verdi is Russian?" I inquired of Mr. Koussakov. I just couldn't resist. It just popped out.

He pursed his lips. They're great lip pursers, the Russians.

"The Music of Verdi" went on and it was pretty bad, pretty bad. It was the story of a young opera singer who arrives with her young brother at a port where a Russian cruiser is tied up and gives a performance aboard it of that great Russian opera "La Traviata." While "Traviata" is pouring from the pretty lips of N. Golovina, the young brother starts climbing all over the docks and heavy machinery on the deck. (Chayevsky's theory is that the only reason the Russians produced this thing is to show off their heavy ship repair equipment and they washed it down with Verdi and if he doesn't stop making cracks like that out loud, he'll never be invited back either.)

Mr. Koussakov turned to me: "Did you like that?"

"Well," I said diplomatically, "I didn't like it," he said emphatically.

Which leads me to an observation about international festivals: you always hate the stuff from your own countries worse than that from any one else's country because you feel vaguely responsible.

Or maybe guilty is the word I'm groping for.

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Good Idea for March!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Let's not forget Fredric March in the Oscar nominations. He was superb as the senior doctor pushed into retirement by Ben Gazzara in "The Young Doctors." The picture was released early last year and voters have a habit of forgetting earlier films annually. This is why most of the better films are sprung on the public late in the year.

At last year's Oscar race, a Canadian photographer, invited to Hollywood by Greer Garson, one of the nominees, almost didn't get to see her. Greer met him in Canada, gave him a personal invitation to attend the awards. On the strength of this, the photographer was given assignments to cover the event by leading Canadian papers and magazines. He arrived, but couldn't get in touch with her. He phoned her press agents. Nothing. Oscar night found him one of the crowd, desperately trying to get photos of the entering stars. Miss Garson saw him and said: "Why didn't you get in touch with me?" He explained his futile attempts. For the rest of the evening he was Greer's guest.

Papa Charlie Chaplin would prefer daughter Geraldine to forget about her career as a ballerina. But the 17-year-old brunette is as ambitious as Charlie was in his early days, and is back in London from her Swiss vacation to resume her studies with the Royal Ballet.

The only person who received a salary in the film "Long Day's Journey Into Night" was Jeanne Barr, who plays the housekeeper. The stars, Katherine Hepburn, Jason Robards, Jr., and Sir Ralph Richardson, preferred a percentage. For their sakes I hope they have a hit.

What ever happened to Maudie Van Doren's movie career? She ended her partnership with producer Al Zeman with a year or so ago and since then has been on the personal appearance route.

Burt Lancaster "sneaked" his "Birdman of Alcatraz" out of town, and was pleased with the reaction. The movie is based on the story of a man named Stroud who spent 50 years in Alcatraz, where he educated himself, and became a worldwide expert on birds. He wrote a book, "Stroud's Digest of Birds."

Judy Garland is in town to prepare for her picture with Burt Lancaster, "A Child Is Waiting," scripted by Abby Mann. And while they say they haven't, Judy seems to have reconciled with husband Mel Lutz.

"I Deplore the Too-Set Look"

No Harm Done

Flip, Twirl with Twist

By KILEEN LEABOYD

Who wants to be "out" when they can be "in"?

These days it's "out" to have a beehive, air-lift or stiff bouffant hairdo.

It's "in" to have the Twist. This is the word of a young man with considerable charm from Salt Lake City, Utah, who is spending two weeks at Eaton's Beauty Salon as a consultant.

He created the Twist hairstyle, and he is known as Mister Paul.

LIKE KING COBRA

The official word is that the Twist, a dance which looks strangely like the writhings of a King Cobra under strong hypnosis, has found its way from the nightclubs to influence women's hairstyles.

Mister Paul deftly created a Twist before an admiring crowd of beauty operators at Eaton's yesterday, talking as he curled and swirled.

MANY VARIATIONS

"Of course there are many variations. But the ideal length for this is about one inch at the neckline tapering to 3-4 inches on top.

"The finished product," he said, speaking of the pretty tresses of Little Theatre personality Annabel Cranston on whom he was working, "will show a kind of 1930s look."

"This is very refreshing after the very set look we've had lately. The Twist is a pace-setter. It's fluid with a continuous swirl from one side of the head to the other, but with loose ends. It's a free, dancing style and it goes well with those swinging dresses every one wants to wear now."

Mister Paul deplores the too-set look.

"It requires too much back-combing and this is terribly hard on the hair unless done by an expert. Back-combing requires clouds and layers of spray and doesn't usually last for more than a day."

JOY OF TWIST

Joy of the Twist, he said, is that it's easy to keep, and even improves in appearance with a lot of activity.

Anyway, in the end Annabel Cranston looked gay and pretty and ready for the Peppermint Lounge.

From the side view she had

RCMP Musical Ride Made Full-Time Job

OTTAWA (UPI)—The RCMP has placed its famed musical ride on a permanent full-time basis, it was disclosed yesterday.

Commissioner C. W. Harrison said the horsemen would be able to provide continuity in training and improve the quality of the precision riding spectacle.

In the past the musical ride was disbanded at the end of a season or four.

Gorge Stage Too Costly

Centennial Theatre Scheme Slated for Scrapheap Today?

Plans for the construction of a centennial outdoor theatre in Victoria West's Banfield Park with a floating stage anchored offshore in the Gorge may be scrapped today.

The proposal, from Victoria centennial committee, has been referred to city hall paris committee, which will meet this morning. Main objections to the scheme appear to be costs and climate. Presumably the area would have to be fenced to keep free-jockeys and seating, toilets and dressing room facilities would be needed. Estimated costs provided by the centennial committee were $16,000 for a large to hold the stage and grading of the area to form an amphitheatre and $30,000 more to provide the temporary seating and toilet accommodation.

ALMOST HALF

This totals $36,000—almost half the $75,000 centennial budget provided by city council.

Cool nights, quality of the district around Banfield Park, lack of parking and other factors are likely to influence some members of the paris committee to veto the plan.

"One alternative would be to use the old filterbeds at Beaver Lake for an outdoor theatre," an informant said yesterday.

MUCH WARMER

"It would be much warmer there at night, the work would be cheaper, there is a fair amount of parking available right there and it would develop the lake area."

Saturna Slaying

Widow in Essondale

The widow of a man who was found shot to death in his Saturna Island home Friday, Mrs. Marjorie Money, was admitted Sunday to the provincial mental hospital at Essondale.

The woman was committed on a warrant sworn out by two doctors and a magistrate.

DEAD IN BED

Victim of the shooting, William Money, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Money of Saturna, was found dead in bed when friends called late Friday night to take him to work at a building material plant on the island.

Police said the 21-year-old widow was in the same bed in a dazed and incoherent condition. A five-month-old son Gordon was safe in his crib in the same room.

INQUEST SATURDAY

An inquest was called Saturday by Coroner Miles Acheson of Ganges and adjourned to Jan. 27.

Anglican funeral services will be held Tuesday at Saturna Island with Rev. Michael Coleman of North Pender Island officiating.

AWARD-WINNING BRANCH BANK DESIGNS ACCENT WIDE USE OF NICKEL STAINLESS STEEL

Exterior architectural components, interior hardware and ornamental accessories illustrate versatility of stainless steel in modern buildings

An all-Canadian branch bank design competition sponsored by the Stainless Steel Design Award Committee has produced some striking examples of contemporary architecture and industrial design featuring extensive use of nickel stainless steel. The competition is part of a continuing program aimed at fostering good design in Canadian stainless steel products.

The award-winning designs featured the use of stainless steel in such diverse applications as curtain walls, roofs, entranceways, window frames, furniture, fixtures, cashier booths, drinking fountains, drive-in service facilities, vaults, safety deposit boxes, door hardware and many other items.

Nickel in stainless steel helps strengthen it, increases its resistance to heat and corrosion, makes it easier to form and fabricate into attractive and useful products for the home, for modern industrial and commercial applications. As the world's largest producer of nickel, Canada benefits from the increased use of nickel stainless steel throughout the world. And Inco through worldwide sales, market development and service activities has helped build world markets for Canadian nickel.

Wilson on Merger:

Time Is Ripe To Grasp The Nettle

Now is the right time to grasp the nettle of amalgamation, Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday.

"If, after adequate study the facts do not indicate that consolidation of civic government is advisable in Greater Victoria, or could be that it is not advisable at the present time, then I would be willing to accept the situation as it is then," he said.

MATTER OF TIMING

"Timing is so important. The right thing done at the right time can lead to success. The right thing done at the wrong time can sometimes lead to failure.

"I feel, as do many others, that this is the right time to 'grasp the nettle.' I don't know for sure that I am right, but I would like to find out, and I believe the majority of open-minded people in the whole area would like to find out, too."

Mayor Wilson was addressing a luncheon meeting of the Victoria City Club. During his speech he paid tribute to retiring centennial co-ordinator Archie Wills.

"One thing for sure is that the city owes a great debt of gratitude to Archie Wills for stepping into a difficult situation and performing yeoman service in getting the show on the road."

AND STILL OTHERS

"There are others, too, like Doug Fletcher, Jim Nesbitt, our own Glyn Jones, Rod Clark, Chief John Albany, 'Big' Holmes, Sam Lane and Pat Fumetto and others, who have and are still putting blood, sweat and tears into those portions of the program for which they are responsible."

Gasoline Price War One-Street Affair

A predicted gasoline price war in Victoria has so far limited itself to one city street and two service stations.

R. A. Vandekerckhove, proprietor of the cut-rate station at Burnside and Alpha, said last night business was up to expectations.

He said the amount of daily sales was not for publication, "as there are a lot of people who would like to know what kind of business we are doing."

Prices at the moment are 42.9 cents a gallon compared with 44.8 cents a gallon charged elsewhere in the city. Nearest competitor, Richard Larsen, whose station is at 642 Burnside, has brought his price down to 43.9 cents a gallon. He offers credit card service while the cut-rate station is strictly cash.

"Business is good and building all the time," said Mr. Larsen, whose station opened within hours of the cut-rate outlet. He said the neighboring station was only part of the reason he lowered his price.

"We are specializing in gasoline sales only and don't have such a high overhead as stations with hube hays and mechanics."

Several city service station operators have indicated they will not drop prices. Others said they will stay within two cents of the competitive price.

"We haven't even finished laying the blacktop at our station yet," said Mr. Vandekerckhove. "When the job is finished and we have our official opening, they'll know we are around."

Gasoline for the cut-rate station is purchased in Bellingham, Wash., and trucked to Victoria by way of Nanaimo.

Oil companies in Vancouver are paying their dealers 3.8 cents a gallon price support due to a gasoline war in Vancouver.

Suspects in Court Today In $12,000 Safe Theft

Moving quickly on the heels of a Monday morning's uncracking in which about $12,000 was stolen from the office of the Don Mee Co., 538 Fisgard, city detectives last night took two suspects into custody.

Police said two men would appear in city court today to answer charges of breaking, entering and theft at Don Mee's.

The suspects were apprehended in a combined move by city Saanich and RCMP of fire—outside Victoria proper.

MONEY FOUND

During prolonged questioning "a considerable sum" of money was found, police said. The safe robbery, largest in Victoria for many years, threw every available city detective into the hunt, and co-operation from adjoining municipalities and RCMP was added.

There was nothing to suggest a tie-in with the theft of a safe less than a week ago in Saanich.

$2,500 MISSING

Two revolvers and $2,500 were stolen from a 500-pound safe belonging to Gregg's Cleaners, 864 Swan. The empty safe was found Wednesday in John Dean Park.

Exact amount of money taken from the battered safe at Don Mee's was not known but police estimated it may have been in excess of $12,000.

UNOFFICIAL BANK

So much money was on hand because a number of Chinese businessmen in that area were in the habit of bringing their cash to the firm for safekeeping over the weekends, it is believed.

The premises was described

Winter Jobs $90,800 In Oak Bay

A winter works program for Oak Bay municipality totaling $90,800 won approval of the newly-formed works and parks committee last night.

The program will be presented to the next meeting of council.

Projects included in the program: A boulevard sprinkling system, $26,000; street lighting extensions, $5,700; new water mains, $22,000; road improvements, $23,500; water pumps for Uplands station and Plymouth station, $8,000; surface water drainage, $5,600.

A $12,000 improvement program for Uplands Park was referred to the estimates committee.

It was the first committee meeting in recent years the press was invited to attend.

Stolen Bike Recovered From Gorge

Christmas gift bicycle of Gordon Carr, 7, of 824 Intervale, stolen nine days ago, was returned Sunday by two men in diving suits who said they found it in the Gorge, just below Tillamook bridge.

Mrs. T. E. Carr was so surprised she forgot to ask their names. Now, she'd like to thank them.

Crutches Crowd Campus

By JILL ARLETT

The door of the lecture room at Victoria University creaked open—40 pairs of eyes turned and waited expectantly for the newcomer.

A wooden crutch appeared, followed by an armful of books and a well-inscribed cast covering a leg which dangled beneath a knee-length skirt.

For Sandra Smythe, a wandy-haired, bright-eyed, first year Arts student, the daily disruption in the classroom was the aftermath of a New Year's Eve tumble—down the stairs.

And in other classrooms on the campus, the crutches of three more female students were clanking against the desks as the holiday season skirts to try again.

Cappy's Back Home!

He Boosted B.C. Abroad

By PETER BRUTON

Back home in "the finest city in the world" is Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, former city alderman, one-time Liberal M.L.A. and jack-of-all-trades.

But that doesn't mean to say he's going to stay here. "I don't know what the future will be," said Cappy Proudfoot yesterday in his first local public pronouncement since he left for Scotland 21 months ago.

BURBING OVER

Bouncing with energy and bubbling over with enthusiasm, he allowed as to how he hadn't seen too many things in Scotland he would like to see introduced here.

One notable exception: the British Broadcasting Corporation. "I'd love to see the BBC type of system here," he said. "It's really wonderful. No commercials, and all for 44 a year."

TRAFFIC CONTROL

But if the BBC took Cappy's fancy, traffic control did not. "It's a disgrace over there," he said. "People park anywhere on the street this side, that side, they make U-turns everywhere and the jaywalking is a well."

Mr. Proudfoot spent most of his time in Ayr but travelled extensively—especially when it was to be at or speak to a Rotary Club meeting.

In the 21 months he was away there was only one week

Centennial Successor?

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot yesterday emerged as a strong possibility to replace Archie Wills as Victoria's centennial co-ordinator.

He served on the provincial centennial committee in 1954 and it is known he is interested in "doing something in a public way."

Capt. Proudfoot spent some time at city hall yesterday and visited the city's personnel office, where applications are being received for the position.

Another person mentioned as a possibility is Jack Phillips, chairman of the Kinsmen's Club bingo nights.

when he couldn't attend a meeting of some club somewhere.

And when he spoke he was a perpetual booster of Canada, and B.C.

It had been 32 years since Mr. Proudfoot had last been in Scotland and he saw changes everywhere.

NIGHT AND DAY

"It was like the difference between night and day. The conditions had improved beyond recognition. It was an absolute phenomenon."

He was particularly impressed with the housing—most of which is built by municipalities rather than by private individuals—and the health of the children.

CAPPY HINTED

Cappy hinted there was a possibility he may one day be a candidate for office in Great Britain.

While he was there the Hon. servatives asked him if he would stand either as a municipal candidate or as a candidate for the British House of Commons.

"Are you interested?" he was asked yesterday.

No comment," said Cappy.

More Part-Time Helpers To Ease Teachers' Load

More part-time stenographic help will be employed at three Greater Victoria junior high schools to lighten the teachers' paperwork burden.

School superintendent John Gough last night told trustees the school board had on several occasions endorsed the principle of employing teachers' aides.

The board approved hiring additional help to bring S. J.

Wills Junior High, Esquimalt Junior High and Central Junior High up to B.C. standards.

Approval in principle was given to an army plan to install civil defence sirens at the sites of Lanadowne Junior High, Uplands and Craigflower schools.

R. Hamilton Smith, supervisor of buildings and grounds, must approve plans before the sirens are installed.

Greater Victoria school's symphony orchestra and the junior string orchestra will perform at the Canadian Music Educators' Conference in Vancouver April 26 to 28.

Trustees approved spending $300 to transport the 125 student musicians and accompanying teachers there and back in four charter buses. The students will pay their own ferry fares.

Caller Changed Tune So Did Radio Station

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

THE THINGS WE HEAR: There was a pleased little gurgle from a CKDA announcer yesterday when a listener phoned in to the program "Tele-pinion" to give her views on the qualities of the station staff.

"Yes," said the woman, her voice being aired so all could hear, "all you announcers have such wonderful voices."

"Why thank you," began the announcer.

But the listener wasn't quite finished.

"All except that d. . . Ralph Pashley," she said. "He's the one."

Her voice was drowned out by the strains of a melodic air.

QUOTABLE QUOTE: The Financial Post, referring to Social Credit's renewed "On to Ottawa" drive, doesn't see too much hope of the Socreds getting anywhere in the next federal election.

The paper says: "For though the Social Credit party is fortune's darling at the provincial level in Alberta and British Columbia it is still pretty much of a brat on the federal scene where maturity and roots count for more than ad-venture's luck and blash-optimism."

FAIR EXCHANGE: During a recent trip to Europe, Miss Daphne Phillips, a Dawson Creek resident, struck up a conversation with a fellow passenger who informed her his name was Albert Rosellini and he was governor of Washington State.

"Glad to know you," quipped Miss Phillips, who didn't believe a word of it. "I'm Queen of England."

Much to her consternation she later learned it was indeed the Washington governor. When she met him again he greeted her with: "Hi Liz, where's your crown?"

After the apologies, Governor Rosellini said it would be forgiven if Miss Phillips would wear a Century 21 world fair lapel pin—which she is doing.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? DEPT.: Calendar of events put out by Victoria's centennial committee states:

"The logging sports, for which good cash prizes are being offered, will be for world's championships. Top high-riggers, buckers, harpers and loaders of this land of Paul Bunyan will be there. Paul Bunyan is a fabled hero from Minnesota."

WHAT'EVER BECAME OF: Onetime city lawyer, Pat Bate, plans for that unique "trading post" shopping centre opposite the Crowe-Gomanson property on Government (even Eddie Brown, a hockey player of note, was going to have a men's wear shop there).

That fearless scourge of everything evil, the Green Hornet? Whatever happened to Dorothy Heltz Hewitt, the Jamaican fashion model who was banned from living at Shawigan Lake School with her wined and dined husband, Michael, because she was "colored"?

Time always deflating balloons imported by A.H. Graft Edgerton as B.C. centennial decorations?

The night host to Vancouver? Former mayor Claude Harrison and his scarlet-lined overalls?

The five-cent cup of coffee? . . . And where is Dr. Larry Givens, the only man the Tories managed to get elected to the B.C. legislature since 1953? And then he turned independent!

HIGHWAY PATROL: Provincial civil servants who park their cars on the streets around the legislative buildings have set up what they consider a "holproof" system to foil police. Yesterday they were proven wrong.

As soon as a policeman ventures into the legislative buildings precinct, a word is flashed to all officers. The civil servants rush out to move their cars a few inches in order to obliterate the tell-tale yellow chalk marks.

Yesterday dozens of cars parked on Superior were threatened by police before the civil servants knew what was up.

They immediately cried "Foul!"

The story flashed around the buildings.

The police, it was charged, had come around in plain clothes and in a beat-up old car in order to catch offenders.

That's what said Chief John Blackstock.

The civil servants are hopping mad, but one fact remains—these cars looked overgrown.

Trump Her Ace—Never!

By EILEEN LEAROYD

No one would ever dare trump Elizabeth Warren's ace.

After all she is an Advanced Senior Master in contract bridge, and just a tournament away from becoming a Life Master.

At the recent Pacific Northwest Regional Championships in Vancouver, Mrs. Warren performed an astonishing feat in winning the Women's Pairs championship (along with Mrs. Ethel Cleworth of Victoria) and placing in all five categories going — Mixed Pairs, Masters' Pairs, Open Pairs and Easy Bird Pairs.

The competition was stiff, for the Regional was one for the record books, with a total attendance of 1,523 tables, shattering last year's record set in Seattle of 1,403.

Out of the event for Mrs. Warren came 18½ Master points, bringing her to only 30 points away from the valued gold card of the Life Master.

The effort of this international tournament may be better understood when one knows it covered a week of play daily from 1:30 p.m. and again from 7:30 to midnight.

"We played bridge all day," said Mrs. Warren, "and then we talked about it all night. The last two days I hardly knew how to keep going."

GOREN

Mrs. Warren obviously takes her bridge seriously, but she enjoys a good laugh at herself.

A celebrated guest at the Regional was the acknowledged bridge authority of the world—Mr. Charles Goren.

One day Mrs. Warren was taking a short recess from the game when another player asked her how she was making out in the Mixed Pairs.

"Oh I would have done much better if my partner hadn't counted points continuously by Goren, Goren, Goren, Goren, that's all I hear until I am sick of it!"

"Excuse me," said a voice behind her belonging to Charles Goren, "but you are quite right, my book is not meant to be your master but your guide."

VIENNA

Mrs. Warren has been playing tournament-style bridge since she was a girl of 17 in her native Vienna.

"I met Culbertson then," she said, "but thank heaven I did not insult him."

In 1938 Mrs. Warren left Vienna and went to live in England.

During the war she did a variety of things. She "dug for victory," she was an air raid warden during the blitz, she taught German and she taught bridge.

"I loved the English people and had great respect for them."

"In 1949 I came to Victoria to visit some friends, and I have been here ever since." She belongs to Victoria's Duplicate Bridge Club and plays about three times a week.

DOWN ONE

In common with outstanding players, she has total recall of many of the hands she plays.

Contract bridge champions all—Mrs. Ethel Cleworth, Dr. Simon Marinker, world-famed authority Mr. Charles Goren, Mrs. Elizabeth Warren and Mr. Jack Goldie pictured at the Regional Bridge tournament.

One she remembers and "will never forget" was a game in Portland.

"My partner and I were East-West. We had eight hearts, ace, king, queen, and five clubs, ace, king, queen."

"North-South had four hearts to the jack and four diamonds to the jack."

"A natural bid for East-West was six hearts."

"Do you know out of some 50 tables of bridge, every East-West bid six hearts, and we all went down one trick."

Mrs. Warren uses Goren's point count system for bidding. Normally she wants 12-13 points to open, but at times she will open on only 10 points.

"For example, I will open if I have seven diamonds to the ace, queen, five clubs to the queen, a singleton heart and a void suit in spades. I count five points for a void."

Victoria will see her in action in the latter part of March when the open championship of Vancouver Island takes place.

About 300 will enter the event from the Pacific Northwest. There will be six games over a period of three days. During that time Mrs. Warren reckons she will play about 312 hands.

She will be in good company. A well-known entrant will be her partner from the Regional, Mrs. Ethel Cleworth who teaches bridge at Victoria College, and Dr. Simon Marinker and Mr. J. Goldie who took the men's pairs in Vancouver, as well as Mr. William Simpson Burke and Mr. Doug Tuck.

And a PS to the picture that goes with this story. When Mr. Goren saw Mrs. Warren having her photograph taken, he asked if he might be included in it.

PERSONAL MENTION

Capt. D. J. Proudfoot arrived in Victoria by air on Friday evening from Ayr, Scotland, to visit his daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Anderson, in their Derwen Place home. Mrs. Anderson has planned a cocktail party this Thursday evening in honor of her father.

Las Vegas Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Leyden and their daughter Marilyn have returned to their home on Kendal Avenue after a two-week holiday in the south. Travelling by air, they spent a week at the Stardust Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada, and visited Palm Springs, Los Angeles and other Californian centres before returning home.

Honor Bride-Elect

Miss Tere Rogers was the young hostess at the South Turner Street home of Mrs. Sally Rogers Sunday afternoon, to honor bride-elect Miss Susan Earthy at a miscellaneous shower. Guests were Mrs. T. Earthy, Mrs. Sally Rogers and Misses Mary Fletcher, Lynda Jones, Sharon Laker, Muriel Chapman, Nancy Derby, Pat Martin, Pat Patterson, Evelyn Gill and Susan Scott.

Visiting in London

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bennett have signed the register at B.C. House, London, England.

Celebrate Diamond Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brookbank of "Arbutus," Kiwanis Village, will travel up-island this week to celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary in the Duncan home of their son, Mr. Vincent Brookbank, on Thursday. They will receive friends and relatives at afternoon and evening receptions that day. Mr. Brookbank, aged 87, is a veteran of both the Boer War and the First World War. His wife, Ellen, now 82, is a past president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion. There are six sons, one daughter, 24 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

In San Francisco

Victorians who have called at British Columbia House, San Francisco, recently include Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. George Megaw, Mrs. E. L. Rimmer, Dr. and Mrs. A. O. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Maclean, Mrs. Margaret Brenner, Major and Mrs. W. Romeril, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barnes, Mrs. W. N. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. ### Protest in U.S.

B.C. Rail-Barge Alaska Link May Be Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Representative
Thomas Pelly of Washington said he will try to block a recently announced arrangement under which freight shipments to Alaska would be carried by a rail-barge service through British Columbia.

"If some of the existing volume of traffic to and from Alaska is diverted through new routes via Canada, the U.S. carriers at present struggling under great financial difficulty to maintain service will be forced to curtail or completely abandon their operations," Pelly said.

BILL PLANNED

He said he would introduce a bill designed to "protect U.S. privately-owned carriers from unfair government-subsidized foreign-owned railroad and barge service."

TO PRINCE RUPERT

Pelly said his plans were prompted by announcement of an arrangement whereby Canadian rail lines would move freight from the United States to Prince Rupert, B.C., and from there by barge to Whittier, Alaska, to connect with the U.S. government-owned Alaska Railroad.

BUREAUCRATS RAPPED

"This Canadian railroad development is a brainchild of the bureaucrats in the Alaska Railroad," Pelly said in a statement.

"They will never rest until they extend the Alaska Railroad overland to connect with Canada's railroads, regardless of the cost to the American taxpayers," he added.

Pelly said the U.S. Merchant Marine Act of 1920 requires that shipments between points in the United States be carried by vessels built in and documented under U.S. law and owned by U.S. citizens.

However, he said, one clause provides an exception for routes which are in part over Canadian rail lines and their own and connecting water facilities.

Pelly said his bill would repeal that section.

The new Rambler Classic

These 10 features make it worth $1,000 more yet it now sells for less than the low-priced 3

1. New guarantees are the big news! Exclusive Rambler-Gard all-season radiator coolant is so good we guarantee it for two full years! 2. Unconditionally guaranteed for two years is the Rambler Power-Guard 24 battery — anything goes wrong, we replace it! 3. As long as you own the car, we guarantee Rambler's exclusive Ceramic-Armoured muffler and tail-pipe — that's how tough it is! 4. New for '62 is the Double-Safety brake system which makes front and rear brakes independent — provides a double margin of safety! 5. A re-designed front suspension now gives Rambler Classic one of the smoothest, easiest rides you've ever had! 6. Another Rambler exclusive: a special fiber-glass ceiling liner that reduces inside noise by 30%! 7. The whole body is dipped 6 times in a rustproofing bath — that's a Rambler exclusive developed specially for Canadian driving conditions! 8. Rambler's all-welded body and frame eliminates body-bolt squeaks and rattles — adds years of life to the car!

9. The Classic's Aluminum engine, by a big weight reduction, gives easier handling and famous Rambler economy! 10. Big car room and comfort in a sensible size — that's part of the reason Rambler has a consistently higher re-sale value. Rambler Classic, the world's most copied car, gives you what we call basic excellence. Yet you'll pay less for it than for any of the low-priced three. See your

Saanich Case

Third Time Unlucky

Two men caught in the act of breaking into a Saanich market were remanded in Saanich police court yesterday to Jan. 23 for a pre-sentence probation report.

Patrolling police nabbed Floyd Edward Maclean and James Robert Russell Jan. 13 as they tried to break through a ventilator into the Oakcrest Market, 3475 Quadra.

SEPARATE CHARGES

Pleading guilty to a joint charge of attempted breaking and entering, the pair also faced separate charges.

Court was told it was the third time Maclean had raided the market within a week.

TWO OTHERS

Detective Robin Stewart of the Saanich police said Maclean, along with two other men, had entered the market Jan. 6 and had stolen $250.

He returned to the shop again Jan. 9 and ripped a lock from the rear door. Bars on the door foiled that attempt.

SPOTTED BOTH

His third try proved unlucky when police spotted both men on the roof. Maclean pleaded guilty to both other counts.

Russell also pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of a spring knife, which was found on his person when he was searched by police following his arrest.

WIRE MAREEN

The two accused had removed a hatch from a roof ventilator and were cutting through a wire screen into the shop when police found them.

Police seized house-breaking tools consisting of a hacksaw, two pair of rubber gloves, two screwdrivers and a ballpeen hammer.

TIRE FIRM

Maclean also pleaded guilty in city police court to breaking into D & D Tire Co., 1620 Blanshard, Jan. 12. He was remanded to Jan. 23 for sentence.

Welsh Group Will See Mayan Film

A sound and color film, "Land of Ancient Maya," taken in the jungles of Mexico by Colin Hannay of Vancouver, will be the highlight of a meeting tonight of the Victoria Welsh Society.

Mr. Hannay and his associates spent about four months making the 75-minute film. They lived with the Lacandon Indians, descendants of the Mayans. The Lacandons have had little contact with civilization.

The meeting, open to the city's Welsh community and people of Welsh descent at no charge, starts at 8 p.m. at Dulce's hall, 512 Fort Street.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

The trouble with old movies on television is that they are old movies. It was all very well to watch a 1939 movie in 1952 when it was a mere 13 years old. But in 1962 it's wearing a little thin.

Then there is the question of the television stations themselves. Once they get a movie, stinker or not, it is replayed over and over again in different time slots. The Canadian stations are especially at fault here, and seem to delight in pulling the stunt with gas-guzzlers like "Thunder in God's Country" or any other case of the old and odious west.

But the old, old movies have one good thing going for them—at least I get to bed early. By the first commercial, I'm asleep.

Tuesday's Highlights

8:00 p.m.—Garry Moore's guests are singer Denise Lor and comedian Alan King—2 and 6. Also on Channel 7 at 10 p.m.
10:00—Inquiry presents "The Persistent Ones," second of two shows on Canadian justice. This one deals with the problems in sentencing repeat offenders—2 and 6.
10:30—Lively Arts features Sir Ralph Richardson as narrator for a filmed visit to the country home of British sculptor Henry Moore—2 and 6.

Tuesday's Movies

9:30 a.m.—"The Tiger Pup" (1939 drama), Gloria Jean—1.
12:40 p.m.—"The Guardsman" (well-done comedy), Alfred Lunt—2.
3:00—"Live Love and Learn" (1937 romance), Robert Montgomery.
5:00—"A Yank at Oxford" (1937 drama), entertaining despite old plot, Robert Taylor—8.
5:30—"Fighter Squadron" (1948 war drama), Edmund O'Brien—12.
6:30—"Rage at Dawn" (routine 1953 western), Randolph Scott—6.
10:45—"Demetrius and the Gladiators" (1954 sequel to "The Robe") that should never have made it, Victor Mature—8.
11:00—"Force of Evil" (1949 crime drama, fairly interesting), John Garfield—11.
11:00—"Yankee Doodle Dandy" (1932 musical biography of George M. Cohan, with James Cagney in the role that won him an Oscar)—12.
11:25—"Desperadoes Outpost" (1945 western)—6.
11:30—"Dallons Ride Again" (1945 western), Alan Curtis—4.
11:40—"The Affairs of Susan" (1945 comedy), Joan Fontaine—7.
*Recommended.

Fallout Reporting Posts To Ring Victoria Area

By IAN STREET

GREATER VICTORIA is to be ringed by a series of "fallout reporting posts" now under construction.

A total of 30 posts will cover Vancouver Island as far north as Campbell River and Kelsey Bay.

Army engineers are designing and supervising construction of a nationwide grid of shelters containing instruments for recording fallout levels in time of nuclear attack. The information gathered from the posts would be used to warn the populace of fluctuating levels of fallout following a nuclear attack.

The Canadian Army's Western Command, which takes in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, will have a total of about 2,000 fallout reporting posts when the program is complete.

Here, shelters to house the posts are already nearing completion at RCMP detachments in Sooke, Shawanigan Lake and Chemainus.

LIGHT STATIONS

Others are under construction at department of transport light stations at Beacon Rocks, Sheringham Point, Discovery Island and Active Pass.

Still others to be put out to tender in the next few days, will be constructed at the naval air station at Patricia Bay Airport, B.C. Electric generating station at Jordan River and Cowichan Lake RCMP detachment.

CAPTAIN COMMANDS

Capt. Glen Descoff, commanding officer of the Victoria detachment, 11th Works Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, is in charge of the program for establishing local posts.

He said RCMP detachments, light stations and public utilities were chosen because they are manned 24 hours a day and would have staff available in an emergency.

RELIABLE LINKS

These locations also are served by reliable communications, RCMP radio, DoT radio-telephone and BCE radio. Information from the "automatic reading device" in each post will be sent by the "best" (continued on Page 2)

Neighbors Are Jittery

Causing a furore among neighbors in Valley Stream, N.Y., is this 120-pound, nine-month-old pet lion "Congo," cuddled by owner Edwin Farrar, 41. Neighbors ponder how to get a law passed that will rid them of the lion. It's their community project No. 1.—(AP Photofax)

Compensation Board Probe Likely Soon Says Peterson

Appointment of a royal commission to probe Workmen's Compensation Board procedures will likely be made at the coming session of the B.C. legislature.

The hint was dropped yesterday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson while speaking before the annual convention of the western district, International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, in Vancouver. "I believe that each time your union has submitted a brief to the government there has been some reference to workmen's compensation," said Mr. Peterson.

"In your last submission you requested the appointment of a royal commission. "At this time I can only assure you that your submissions in this respect have not been forgotten nor have they fallen on deaf ears," he said. At the last session of the legislature Mr. Peterson said that a royal commission into workmen's compensation board procedures was being considered.

Chicago School Disaster Traced to 13-Year-Old

CHICAGO (UPI)—A family court judge has received information that a 13-year-old boy has admitted setting the Dec. 1, 1958 fire which killed 93 children and teachers at Our Lady of the Angels school here, it was reported yesterday.

It was said the boy was a student at Our Lady of the Angels and was one of a group of students left to safety minutes after discovery of the blaze, which claimed the lives of 92 children and three nuns. The boy admitted starting the school fire by tossing "lighted matches into a waste container near a basement stairwell, it was said. He said he hated school and lived to hear fire sirens.

Snow Due

The weatherman says snow is almost a certainty for Victoria this morning. It's supposed to change to mixed rain and snow during the afternoon.

Leftist Gizenga May Face Murder Trial

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—The central Congolese parliament yesterday overwhelmingly approved a vote of censure against Vice-Premier Antoine Gizenga, clearing the way for trial of the Communist-leaning Lumumbist on murder or treason charges.

Gizenga was captured and placed under house arrest in Stanleyville by central Congolese soldiers after heavy fighting during the weekend. That apparently put an end to Gizenga's secessionist efforts.

SUFFICIENT CAUSE

A central government spokesman said the 13 dead in Stanleyville are sufficient cause for Gizenga's arrest.

There were reports that a formal arrest warrant was being prepared by the public prosecutor.

GETS FREE HAND

Parliament voted the censure against the self-proclaimed heir to the late Patrice Lumumba by the overwhelming count of 67 to 1, with four abstentions.

Observers said the censure gives the government of Premier Cyrille Adoula a free hand to deal with Gizenga as it sees fit.

MEN EXCHANGED

The UN and Katanga last night exchanged prisoners taken in the battle of Elisabethville early last month.

Fourteen UN prisoners were released in return for 30 Katangese troops.

Kennedy Thant Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy appealed to both The Netherlands and Indonesia yesterday for peaceful settlement of their New Guinea dispute lest an outbreak of war bring harm to all the world.

Concern was also expressed in the United Nations by acting Secretary-General U Thant over the naval clash off West New Guinea. He also appealed for a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

Trade Up

Jobless Totals Tumble

HAMILTON (CP)—Works Minister David Walker said Canada's year-end trade balance was favorable for the first time since 1952.

FIGURES CITED

Citing figures not yet released, Mr. Walker said that unemployment for December was down between 120,000 and 130,000 from December, 1960. The unemployment figure in mid-December, 1960, was 528,000. The last available figure from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics—for mid-November, 1961—was 349,000.

EARLY ELECTION

He said the latest gross national product—the sum of all goods and services produced in the country—is higher than ever before.

He said in an interview these favorable signs should mean an early federal election this year.

"But the prime minister wants to get some legislation through first."

Smallpox Checks Spread

LONDON (UPI)—Health checks against smallpox spread over most of Europe and to the Mid-East Monday following the death in Britain of the sixth suspected or confirmed victim among 12 cases of the disease.

In Copenhagen, all people who have visited England since before Christmas were being urged to report immediately for vaccination. In Genoa, port authorities imposed sanitary checks on the ship President Garfield, which arrived from Pakistan where there now are 287 confirmed cases.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans Canada Airlines said Monday all passengers to Germany must show proof of smallpox vaccinations because of an outbreak of the disease in Düsseldorf.

Go to Hell Says Nehru

BOMBAY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru told critics of Defence Minister Krishna Menon Monday to "go to hell."

Dutch Chase Invaders Capture 50

(AP-Reuters)

HOLLANDIA—The Dutch navy dispersed a flotilla of Indonesian torpedo boats attempting to invade West New Guinea Monday night and sank one of the vessels, an official communique asserted yesterday.

The communique, issued by the Dutch military command, Rear Admiral L. E. H. Reeser, said 59 survivors were picked up from the torpedo boat.

CHASED BACK

A navy spokesman also said Dutch ships chased the remains of the flotilla back to Indonesian territory.

The communique said the torpedo boats were attempting to land troops in Dutch-held West New Guinea but that the move was completely foiled and not one Indonesian soldier got ashore.

The spokesman said Dutch ships chased pursuit of the Indonesian boats because "The Netherlands still respects Indonesian territory."

In Jakarta, Indonesia confirmed that one of its torpedo boats was sunk in a battle with Dutch ships and planes. But a government spokesman said the Indonesian vessels were attacked outside of the territorial waters of Netherlands New Guinea.

HEAVILY ARMED

The Dutch communique said here described the torpedo boats as speedy and heavily armed, carrying 40-millimetre guns and four torpedoes.

"The ships, which have been especially developed by the Russians, are very adequate for hit-and-run actions," the communique asserted.

The communique said the 50 survivors constituted twice the

Hees Hopeful

No Bloc For Canada

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—If Canada is alert to opportunities and maintains a variety of trade goods to offer the world it may not be necessary to join trading blocs, Trade Minister Hees said Monday night. (See Page 3.)

"Proposals which would have Canada join one or another particular trading bloc seem to fail to take into account the damage which such an association could pose for our relations with other trading partners," Hees said here.

IN WIDE DEMAND

"Canada produces for export a variety of goods which are in demand all over the world," he said. "So long as this is so, Canada benefits from maintaining the maximum flexibility to take advantage of new opportunities as and where they arise."

MARKETS OPENED

Hees said that in the last 10 years Canadian producers opened markets for more varied and complex products. However, this widening base of exports had been outpaced by imports, causing a trading deficit of $713,000,000 in 1956. The deficit has gradually been reduced until a surplus of exports over imports now is in sight.

Australia Fears Setback

BRADFORD, England (Reuters)—Britain's entry into the European Common Market could inhibit the development of Australia, Canada and New Zealand and threaten Western economic co-operation, Australia's high commissioner in London, Sir Eric Harrison, said Monday night.

Addressing the Bradford Textile Society, Sir Eric said about 20 per cent of Australia's export income would likely be affected.

Payola For Visas?

TORONTO (UPI)—The immigration department Monday launched an investigation into charges of alleged payola to speed up visas for Greek bridegrooms.

The inquiry followed a story by newspaper columnist Pierre Berton that he had three affidavits from Greek immigrants swearing they had paid money to a Toronto travel agent for his help in obtaining visas from the department.

J. D. McFarlane, district superintendent, said his agents would question the immigrants and the travel agent.

The travel agent named in the story, Constantinos Minakakis of the Minakakis Travel Service, denied the charges.

B.C. Forgetting Flood 'Victims'?

VERNON (CP)—Stuart Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Okanagan Revelstoke, says the B.C. government is making no plans for resettlement of 1,200 persons who will be flooded out by the waters backed up by the High Arrow Dam on the Columbia River.

He said in a weekend interview he is disturbed by the fact nothing has been said in recent talks about resettlement plans.

"It's a matter for a town planning authority," he said, "and should be started now."

He said he would take up the matter in Ottawa. The provincial government must find locations for the displaced. The federal government could assist materially through its experience with the St. Lawrence Highway. It was up to the provincial government to ask for the assistance.

Double Honeymoon Ends for Tony

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI)—Tony Armstrong-Jones, Lord Snowdon, had two honeymoons. One was with Princess Margaret and the other was with the British public. Both are now ended.

You would think it would be blue skies all day long for a man who had a beautiful wife, a good job, excellent social connections and a handsome new son. Instead, it's simply stormy weather for Tony and the forecast is that things are about to get worse.

When he and Margaret return from their vacation in Antigua, they will find a letter from the ministry of works telling them work can be started at any time on their new home. This is a 22-room apartment at No. 1A Kensington Palace.

The catch is that it is going to cost $198,000 to renovate the crumbling building Queen Elizabeth will pay $56,000 of it from her private income. The British taxpayer will have to pick up the rest of the tab, and that's where the trouble is going to start. It is inevitable that the taxpayer is getting for his money.

Tony has done what any head of a family would do in such circumstances. He got a job (for maybe as much as $28,000 a year) as artistic director of a new magazine which will become part of the Sunday Times, published by Roy Thomson, Canadian newspaper magnate.

On Sunday, the Observer, rival of the Sunday Times, cried foul. "It will inevitably seem unfair to rival newspapers and magazines that the Queen's close relative is used for the enlargement and enrichment of the Thomson empire."

Yesterday, Daily Mirror columnist Cassandra wrote with tongue in cheek that until Tony "persuades his charming wife to become women's features editor of the Daily Mirror, we shall soldier on alone, but not without a friendly cheer for Tony flying into the dark, dark tangled jungle of journalism."

Where all this cloud end nobody knows, but the question is whether Tony's troubles will rub off on the entire Royal family.

B.C. Rail-Barge Alaska Link May Be Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Representative Thomas Pelly of Washington said he will try to block a recently announced arrangement under which freight shipments to Alaska would be carried by a rail-barge service through British Columbia.

"If some of the existing volume of traffic to and from Alaska is diverted through new routes via Canada, the U.S. carriers at present struggling under great financial difficulty to maintain service will be forced to curtail or completely abandon their operations," Pelly said.

BILL PLANNED

He said he would introduce a bill designed to "protect U.S. privately owned carriers from unfair government-subsidized foreign owned railroad and barge service."

TO PRINCE RUPERT

Pelly said his plans were prompted by announcement of an arrangement whereby Canadian rail lines would move freight from the United States to Prince Rupert, B.C., and from there by barge to Whittier, Alaska, to connect with the U.S. government-owned Alaska Railroad.

BUREAUCRATS RAPPED

"This Canadian railroad development is a brainchild of the bureaucrats in the Alaska Railroad," Pelly said in a statement.

"They will never rest until they extend the Alaska Railroad overland to connect with of the cost to the American taxpayers," he added.

Pelly said the U.S. Merchant Marine Act of 1920 requires that shipments between points in the United States be carried by vessels built in and documented under U.S. law and owned by U.S. citizens.

However, he said, one clause provides an exception for routes which are in part over Canadian rail lines and their own and connecting water facilities.

Pelly said his bill would repeal that section.

U.K. Envoy Stabbed In Yemen

Nation Urged:

Outlaw Mental Hospitals

OTTAWA (CP)—A radical new pattern for treatment of Canada's mentally ill in community-operated hospitals instead of provincial institutions was proposed here Monday at the second Canadian institute on mental health services.

"Present mental hospitals should be legislated out of existence," the convention was told in one of six reports from a committee of the Canadian Mental Health Association after a six-year study.

The six reports—including far reaching recommendations for the treatment of mental patients—were placed before 130 Canadian leaders in psychiatry, psychology, social work, occupational therapy and psychiatric nursing for detailed study.

Psychiatric treatment has often been thought of as being best managed by custodial care. The modern trend saw psychiatry as a medical specialty which must operate in medical centres similar to general hospitals, the report declared.

Leftist Gizenga May Face Murder Trial

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—The central Congolese parliament yesterday overwhelmingly approved a vote of censure against Vice-Premier Antoine Gizenga, clearing the way for trial of the Communist-leaning Lumumbist on murder or treason charges.

Gizenga was captured and placed under house arrest in Stanleyville by central Congolese soldiers after heavy fighting during the weekend. That apparently put an end to Gizenga's secessionist efforts.

SUFFICIENT CAUSE

A central government spokesman said "the 15 dead in Stanleyville are sufficient cause" for Gizenga's arrest.

There were reports that a formal arrest warrant was being prepared by the public prosecutor.

GETS FREE HAND

Parliament voted the censure against the self-proclaimed heir to the late Patrice Lumumba by the overwhelming count of 67 to 1, with four abstentions.

Observers said the censure gives the government of Pie-

Neighbors Are Jittery

Causing a furore among neighbors in Valley Stream, N.Y., is this 120-pound, nine-month-old pet lion "Congo," cuddled by owner Edwin Farrar, 41. Neighbors ponder how to get a law passed that will rid them of the lion. It's their community project No. 1.—(AP Photofax.)

Compensation Board Probe Likely Soon Says Peterson

Appointment of a royal commission to probe Workmen's Compensation Board procedures will likely be made at the coming session of the B.C. legislature.

The hint was dropped yesterday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson while speaking before the annual convention of the western district International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, in Vancouver.

"I believe that each time your union has submitted a brief to the government there has been some reference to workmen's compensation," said Mr. Peterson.

"In your last submission you requested the appointment of a royal commission.

"At this time I can only assure you that your submissions in this respect have not been forgotten nor have they fallen on deaf ears," he said.

At the last session of the legislature Mr. Peterson said that a royal commission into Workmen's Compensation Board procedures was being considered.

Chicago School Disaster Traced to 13-Year-Old

CHICAGO (UPI)—A family court judge has received information that a 13-year-old boy admitted setting the Dec. 1, 1958, fire which killed 95 children and teachers at Our Lady of the Angels school here, it was reported yesterday.

The information was given Sunday to Judge Alfred C. Cella of family court.

It was said the boy was a student at Our Lady of the Angels and was one of a group of students led to safety minutes after discovery of the blaze, which claimed the lives of 92 children and three nuns.

The boy admitted starting the school fire by tossing lighted matches into a waste container near a basement stairwell. It was said he hated school and loved to hear fire sirens.

Go to Hell Says Nehru

BOMBAY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru told critics of the Defence Minister Krishna Menon Monday to "go to hell."

Kennedy Thant Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy appealed to both The Netherlands and Indonesia yesterday for peaceful settlement of their New Guinea dispute lest an outbreak of war bring harm to all the world.

Concern was also expressed in the United Nations by acting Secretary-General U. Thant over the naval clash off West New Guinea. He also appealed for a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

Trade Up

Jobless Totals Tumble

HAMILTON (CP)—Works Minister David Walker said Canada's year-end trade balance was favorable for the first time since 1952.

Citing figures not yet released, Mr. Walker said that unemployment for December was down between 120,000 and 130,000 from December, 1960.

FIGURES CITED

The unemployment figure in mid-December, 1960, was 528,000. The last available figure from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics—for mid-November, 1961—was 349,000.

He said the latest gross national product—the sum of all goods and services produced in the country—is higher than ever before.

EARLY ELECTION

He said in an interview these favorable signs should mean an early federal election this year.

"But the prime minister wants to get some legislation through first."

Smallpox Checks Spread

LONDON (UPI)—Health checks against smallpox spread over most of Europe and to the Mid-East Monday following the death in Britain of the sixth suspected or confirmed victim among 12 cases of the disease.

In Copenhagen, all people who have visited England since before Christmas were being urged to report immediately for vaccination. In Genoa, port authorities imposed sanitary checks on the ship President Garibaldi, which arrived from Pakistan where there now are 287 confirmed cases.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans-Canada Airlines said Monday all passengers to Germany must show proof of smallpox vaccinations because of an outbreak of the disease in Düsseldorf.

Indonesia

Dutch Catch 50 Invaders

(AP-Reuters)

HOLLANDIA—The Dutch navy dispersed a flotilla of Indonesian torpedo boats attempting to invade West New Guinea Monday night and sank one of the vessels, an official communique asserted yesterday.

The communique, issued by the Dutch military command, Rear Admiral L. E. H. Reser, said 50 survivors were picked up from the torpedo boat.

'CRASHED BACK'

A navy spokesman also said Dutch ships chased the remains of the flotilla back to Indonesian territory.

The communique said the torpedo boats were attempting to land troops in Dutch-held West New Guinea but that the move was completely foiled and not one Indonesian soldier got ashore.

The spokesman said Dutch ships ceased pursuit of the Indonesian boats because "the Netherlands still respects Indonesian territory."

In Jakarta, Indonesia confirmed that one of its torpedo boats was sunk in a battle with Dutch ships and planes. But a government spokesman said the Indonesian vessels were attacked outside of the territorial waters of Netherlands New Guinea.

HEAVILY ARMED

The Dutch communique issued here described the torpedo boats as speedy and heavily armed, carrying 40 millimetre guns and four torpedoes.

The ships, which have been especially developed by the Russians, are very adequate for hit-and-run actions," the communique asserted.

The communique said the 50 survivors constituted twice the

No Bloc For Canada

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—If Canada is alert to opportunities and maintains a variety of trade goods to offer the world it may not be necessary to join trading blocs, Trade Minister Hees said Monday night. (See Page 3.)

"Proposals which would have Canada join one or another particular trading bloc seem to fail to take into account the damage which such an association could pose for our relations with other trading partners," Hees said.

IN WIDE DEMAND

"Canada produces for export a variety of goods which are in demand all over the world," he said. "So long as this is so, Canada benefits from maintaining the maximum flexibility to take advantage of new opportunities as and where they arise."

MARKETS OPENED

Hees said that in the last 10 years Canadian producers opened markets for more varied and complex products. "However, this widening base of exports had been outpaced by imports, causing a trading deficit of $713,000,000 in 1956. The deficit has gradually been reduced until a surplus of exports over imports now is in sight."

Australia Fears Setback

BRADFORD, England (Reuters)—Britain's entry into the European Common Market could inhibit the development of Australia, Canada and New Zealand and threaten Western economic co-operation, Australia's high commissioner in London, Sir Eric Harrison, said Monday night.

Addressing the Bradford Textile Society, Sir Eric said about 20 per cent of Australia's export income would likely be affected.

Payola For Visas?

TORONTO (UPI)—The immigration department Monday launched an investigation into charges of alleged payola to speed up visas for Greek bridegrooms.

The inquiry followed a story by newspaper columnist Pierre Berton that he had three affidavits from Greek immigrants swearing they had paid money to a Toronto travel agent for his help in obtaining visas from the department.

J. D. McFarlane, district superintendent, said his agents would question the immigrants and the travel agent.

The travel agent named in the story, Constantina Minkakis of the Minkakis Travel Service, denied the charges.

Mine Traps 49 in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Forty-nine miners were reported trapped Monday in an American Smelting Co. mine at the town of Francisco Portillo, according to information reaching here from Chihuahua in northern Mexico.

The miners were trapped in an explosion and cave-in Sunday that killed nine men, the reports said.

The explosion was touched off in a gas pocket.

Double Honeymoon Ends for Tony

By HARRY FERGUSON

LONDON (UPI)—Tony Armstrong-Jones, Lord Snowdon, had two honeymoons. One was with Princess Margaret and the other was with the British public. Both are now ended.

You would think it would be blue skies all day long for a man who had a beautiful wife, a good job, excellent social connections and a hard-earned new son. Instead, it's suddenly stormy weather for Tony, and the forecast is that things are about to get worse.

When he and Margaret return from their vacation in Antigua, they will find a letter from the messengers of works telling them work can be started at any time on their new home. This is a 22-room apartment at No. 1A Kensington Palace.

The catch is that it is going to cost $196,000 to renovate the crumbling building Queen Elizabeth will pay $56,000 of it from her private income. The British taxpayer will have to pick up the rest of the tab, and that's where the trouble is going to start. It is inevitable that the question will be asked what the taxpayer is getting for his money.

Tony has done what any head of a family would do in such circumstances. He got a job for maybe as much as $28,000 a year as artistic director of a new magazine which will become part of the Sunday Times, published by Roy Thomson, Canadian newspaper magnate.

On Sunday, the Observer, rival of the Sunday Times, cried foul. "It will inevitably seem unfair to rival newspapers and magazines that the Queen's close relative is used for the enlargement and enrichment of the Thomson empire."

Yesterday, Daily Mirror col-

umnist Cassandra wrote with tongue in cheek that until Tony "persuades his charming wife to become women's feature editor of the Daily Mirror, we shall soldier on alone, but not without a friendly cheer for Tony flying into the dark, dark, tangled jungle of journalism."

Where all this could end nobody knows, but the question is whether Tony's troubles will rub off on the entire Royal family.
